Suzette's Baby—Dead Fast Game for Americans More Thought? What Kind? Poor Diamond Men

— By Arthur Brisbane —

Copyright, 1921.

Suzette has lost her baby—too much civilization. Suzette, a lady chimpanzee, was born in captivity. Her baby, second generation removed from the jungle, will be neatly stuffed tomorrow—it's dead. Thought for all of us in that. H. G. Wells ought to write about it.

When the baby was born, Suzette did not know what to do with it. She had been in vaudeville, where they shaved and powdered her arms to make her look "human." She had worn low neck dresses, corsets, even high heel shoes, to entertain foolish humans. She had no idea how to take care of a baby chimpanzee. She held it pressed closer to her heart, using the hand on one hind leg to hold it, would let no one take it, and it died.

If Suzette had been in the jungle, instead of being in vaudeville, her baby would be alive. Some fashionable mothers can sympathize with Suzette and she with them.

Americans won the international polo tournament in two straight games, and Americans lost at golf. It is better to be beaten at a slow game, in which not danger is involved, than at polo, a fast, dangerous game.

English reporters speak of "Milburn's daring, reckless riding." Daring and reckless describes Milburn. It wouldn't have made the slightest difference to him if he had broken both legs, both arms and his neck, and won the match.

The English played with perfect "form," the Americans didn't. They played with perfect recklessness. Recklessness beats form in a real fight.

The English will find comfort in the fact that Milburn's father was born in England. His mother wasn't, that's why his team beat the English.

Mr. Lowell, president of Harvard, says this country needs "more thought." On what shall the thought be based? To tell the average man or woman to think is like telling that person to fly, without the machine.

Thought is based on experience, reading, travel, discussion with intelligent minds. How is the ordinary person to think? If poor, his experiences are limited to work, sleep and foolish wishing. If rich, in this country, the thought of youth is apt to concentrate on a nicely painted automobile in the morning and a nicely painted dancing partner in the evening. Nothing much there to start real thought.

Thinking is a new accomplishment for the human race. Here and there individual men think. Nine hundred and ninety-nine out of a thousand die without ever having thought, in the real sense of the word.

Eugenic gentlemen, feeling that our race can be improved by breeding as we breed horses, hope to breed thought. You may do that later. After men shall have THOUGHT as long as horses have RUN, say a million years, thinking power may become hereditary.

Man O' War, the greatest race horse, has a full brother that sold the other day for $115,000, largely because he was Man O' War's full brother.

How much, in a commercial sense, would you give for the full brother of a great man? Not 10 cents. Thinkers in our period are accidents, like white blackbirds. We are a long way off from breeding them regularly as we breed thoroughbred horses, bulldogs, short-horn cattle and "three-hundred-egg" hens.

However, every mind has some slight capacity for thinking, and ought to use it.

Keep out of the diamond business. Diamond dealers are in the hands of the banks, they are getting extended. Another word to the business man. On the other hand, the poor diamond man is the victim of the Bolshevist. Russia has sent to this country several hundred million dollars' worth of diamonds, "collected," to use a polite word, from former owners among the Russian royalty and nobility.

A rough diamond bought from the monopoly, cut here, and costing the wholesaler $260 a karat, can be bought, all cut, for $100 less per karat, and there is little buying at that price. There is a chance for energetic merchants to make a great drive in diamonds at a third of former prices.

More than twenty ships have suddenly disappeared from the face of the ocean. One was found with the crew gone, a letter said they had been kidnaped by pirates. Others have vanished completely, and there are of many nations—America, England, Japan, Italy, Spain, Russia, Norway, Denmark, France, Brazil.

Some one suggests Bolshevik submarines seizing and sinking ships for the cargoes. Lenin and Trotsky, however, are not maniacs. There's probably nothing in that suggestion.

But the world has turned everything upside down, made killing fashionable, international piracy and looting a matter of course. Is conceivable that some swift fighting ship, sold, not missed in the shuffle, has been playing the game of pirate, robber and murderer on the high seas.

TO PROBE LARCENY OF CARS

Robinson Ordered to Furnish Specifications in Charges Against Lawyer Perry

Sensational disclosures of the workings of the alleged Middlesex county "auto ring" are expected as the result of an order of Judge Crosby served on Frank S. Robinson of Natick to furnish complete specifications of his allegations that Attorney George T. Perry of Boston was the director of the "ring" doing a tremendous business in stolen cars.

The court order followed Robinson's petition for the removal of Perry from the bar, which has the backing of Attorney General Allen. The petition is an offshoot of the attorney general's action against Tufts in connection with the alleged "ring."

Robinson is ordered to give the names of persons alleged to be in collusion with Perry in the stealing of automobiles; the names of the owners of stolen automobiles, and of persons to whom they were sold; the names of agents from whom Perry received money for the sale of stolen automobiles, and the names of purchasers of automobiles having false number plates, etc.

He is also called on to give the name of a person whose name was forged on a bill of sale; names of persons defrauded in the purchase of stolen automobiles; the names of agents who were threatened if they gave up the practice of stealing automobiles, and the names of persons who believed that the cars purchased by them were obtained in a lawful manner by Perry.

PALMER SUIT IS SETTLED

Sister of Dixie Esmond Says Husband Has Agreed to Return to Her

Domestic differences of Anthony Joseph Palmer, No. 346 West Third street, South Boston, and his wife, sister of Dixie Esmond, who is suing George H. Perkins for $100,000 heart balm, have been settled, Mrs. Palmer announced today.

Mrs. Palmer said her husband, who filed suit for divorce, charging cruel and abusive treatment, had agreed to return to her.

While saying that all was peaceable in the family she added: "Instead of me beating him, he beat me." She denied that she had ever threatened Palmer with a knife.

In his suit Palmer cited a number of alleged assaults, one of which he claimed occurred on June 18. He also asked for the custody of their minor son, Francis.

Dixie Esmond, sister of Mrs. Palmer, is a former Boston chorus girl who charges Perkins, Boston and New York broker, with breach of promise. (0 0477).

Sims Tells Denby He Was Incorrectly Quoted

By International News Service.

Washington, June 23.—It took Rear Admiral William Snowden Sims just two minutes by the clock today to "explain" to Secretary of the Navy Denby his famous "jackass" speech in London which resulted in his leave being cancelled and his being peremptorily ordered to return to the United States.

At the conclusion of the short session Secretary of the Navy Denby received newspaper reporters and said:

"Admiral Sims denied the accounts of the statements attributed to him. He said that he had been incorrectly quoted. I gave him a written memorandum setting forth those statements and asked him to inform me in writing where he was incorrectly quoted and to tell me, if he could, what he did say in that speech."

Secretary Denby would give no hint as to the nature of his future action in the Sims case and he would add nothing to the brief statement made at the close on the interview.

Admiral Sims spent an hour in Admiral Coonts' office, at the end of which he emerged with a statement which he had written out in longhand for Secretary Denby. The admiral himself carried the document to the secretary's office and left it with him.

"I have given the secretary my statement," said the admiral. "If there's anything further to be said on this story Secretary Denby will say it."

The top of the boy's head was blown off by his own rifle, which was found lying beside the body. He was said to have been despondent because of the deaths of sixty chickens on a poultry farm he conducted for his brother. Medical Examiner Bailey pronounced Jay's death suicide. He was a member of Augustus P. Gardner Post, American Legion.

Marie Prevost Saves King Baggott

Marie Prevost, movie star and former bathing beauty, who rescued unconscious director from swimming pool.

Pasadena, June 23.—Marie Prevost, Universal Film star, was heroine in a spectacular drowning scene that so startled the camera man he forgot to keep the crank turning.

Her director, King Baggott, owes his life to Miss Prevost's swimming prowess and physical strength. The assistant director, Nat Ross, owes his life to the camera man and others who dragged him from the pool.

Miss Prevost was in the water in a swimming scene. Ross, leaning over the edge of the pool with a megaphone, fell in and struck his head on the bottom. Immediately Baggott plunged in after him. But his head struck against the side of the pool as he came up and started toward Ross, who was feebly struggling toward the edge. Baggott again slumped under, unconscious from the impact.

With swift strokes, Miss Prevost swam to Baggott, forced him above the water and held him up until others pulled them both over the edge. Ross meanwhile was taken out of the water safely, though exhausted.

Bridgeport, Ct., June 23.—Mrs. William D. Bishop, with as Bianca West won fame as the star in Eugene Walter's play "Paid in Full," has been granted full freedom from her husband, whom she married in 1911 while he was a student at Yale.

He is the son of the late William D. Bishop and grandson of the founder of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railway.

Taking the witness stand, Mrs. Bishop told of having trailed her husband to a New Haven hotel, where she declared she found him registered with another woman under the name of "Mr. and Mrs. W. D. ASKS LIMIT FOR AUTO DRIVERS

Goodwin Believes Maximum Sentence Will End Death Wave

A declaration by State Registrar of Motor Vehicles Frank A. Goodwin that every autoist convicted of operating while under the influence of liquor ought to be sent to jail, today brought to light the unusual fact that hardly any two inferior court judges in the State are imposing the same penalty for the same auto-law violations.

An inquiry of court practices recently completed by Mr. Goodwin's inspectors show that while in East Boston and Charlestown the custom is to impose a jail sentence upon drunken drivers, the same class of offenders is in rarely fined more than $25 in Lawrence.

APPEALS WIN IN BRISTOL.

The Brighton Court usually fines either $50 or $100. West Brockton ranges from $25 to $50, with an occasional $100. Brockton ranges from $50 to $100 and Fitchburg usually fines $150.

The Second District Court of Bristol agrees with Charlestown and East Boston that a drunken driver spends lives and sight lines in jail, while Lowell and Newburyport usually let the offenders off with a fine of $50 or $100.

While New Bedford and some other Bristol County Courts invariably order a jail sentence, the offenders frequently appeal to the higher courts and get off with a fine of $150.

"The only way to stop the death wave is to impose the maximum sentence upon the drunken and reckless driver," said Mr. Goodwin.

Over 200 lives have been taken by autos in this State this year. The month's toll is already 38, of whom 15 were children.

Scores of autoists are being deprived of their licenses by State Registrar of Motor Vehicles Frank A. Goodwin in the hope of bringing reckless drivers to their senses.

Prospects of a break in the heat wave were offered today when the weather bureau predicted lower temperatures following local showers, with probable thunder storms in the afternoon and evening.

The official forecast read: "Local showers with probable thunder showers in the afternoon and evening. Friday fair and somewhat cooler, fresh westerly winds."

Following a night of intense heat the mercury dropped to 74 degrees at 5 o'clock, continuing at that figure until 7, when it began to rise, reaching 78 one hour before noon.

Excessive humidity of 72 per cent, however, offset the drop in temperature and made conditions apparently worse than yesterday. Peculiarly enough Portland, Me., Concord, N. H., Burlington and Northfield, Vt., ordinarily among the coldest places in the country, were all hotter than Boston at 8 o'clock today with temperatures of 78. The hottest spot in the country at that hour was Eastport, Me., where the mercury was down to 68, with a southwest wind blowing.

The hottest June 23 on record was in 1916, when the thermometer registered 96. A year ago a minimum of 59 was reached on this date.

WITNESS DENIES HE SAW SACCO

Frantiello Says Two Men Seen Loitering Were Not the Defendants

Albert Frantiello of Quincy, testifying for the defense today in Dedham, said Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti were not the mysterious strangers he saw loitering near the scene of the crime just prior to the shooting in South Braintree.

"The first fellow wore a black cap and dark clothes," Frantiello said. "He was stocky, of dark complexion and had broad shoulders and strong features. It seemed as if he had not been shaved for a week or two. His beard was black. He was about five feet seven inches tall, weighed about 145 pounds and I should say was between twenty-five and thirty years of age.

"The second man wore a dark cap and had a soft hat and wore about the same height as his companion. He was slimmer and had light hair. He was clean shaven. I should say he was about twenty years old and weighed about 120 pounds. I passed them and looked back at them and then walked on."

Under cross-examination Frantiello was asked by District Attorney Katzman to look for one second at the two middle jurors in the front row.

After looking at the jurors and resuming the stand the witness said that the first juror in question was "pretty bald, wears a blue suit, wales and chain and has a mustache."

"Now look again at that juror," said the district attorney.

The witness complied.

"Do you see any moustache on him?"

"No, sir."

"Let you looked at him as long as you say you looked at the two men leaning against the fence in South Braintree," said Katzman.

Wilfred H. Pierce of South Braintree, an employe of the Slater & Morrill shoe factory, testified to seeing the gunmen fire the fatal shots. One of the bandits fired a shot from each side.

This man, according to the witness, was forty-two or forty-three years old, weighed about 160 pounds and was about six or seven inches taller than four or five days' growth of beard.

"I can't say there is not the man in the court room," he added, "but I can put it in that I think he is not the man."

STILLMAN PROVIDED FLORENCE LEEDS WITH $2,000 A MONTH

SHOWERED JEWELS ON SHOW GIRL

Beauty Specialist Reveals Banker's Life With "Flo" in Love Nest

New York, June 23.—Florence Leeds' jewels, Florence Leeds' furs, and Florence Leeds' transformation from an extravagant little show girl to a thrifty, far-sighted "gold digger" were described to a representative of the Boston American today.

A pretty young woman who will be one of the star witnesses against James A. Stillman when Mrs. Stillman presents her defence in the celebrated divorce case next week, gave the vivid description.

Smiling, the girl told how Mrs. Leeds, in discussing her affairs, had said:

"Mr. Leeds my husband, makes me an allowance of $2,000 a month for pin money and I always put it in the bank. When he first arranged the allowance, I used to get it like this in hundred dollar bills, and thought I was having great fun when I went around presenting them in stores and receiving the change. It makes such an impression, I thought.

"But I've gotten over all that now and I don't carry even my carfare with me. Everything I get goes in the bank. I deposit it as quickly as I get it."

Baby Jay Leeds, reputed son of the philandering financier, flitted through the narrative. Stillman himself appeared in person here and there as the pretty witness told of intimate scenes in the banker's bowers of love in the Hotel Plaza and the Eighty-sixth street apartment and elsewhere.

TELLS OF DIAMONDS.

The little witness, who is a beauty specialist, laughed as she looked at a picture of James A. Stillman and said:

"Of course, that's Mr. Leeds. There can be no doubt about it. I've seen him often enough to know, and I've seen his baby, too. But Mr. St—I mean Mr. Leeds never spoke to me and I never spoke to him. He merely showered jewels on me at especially rings. Here are a few that I saw often:

"One diamond shaped diamond ring.

"Two octagon shaped diamonds.

"A diamond shaped emerald; each between 5 and 7 carats.

"A bar pin of sixteen diamonds of about one carat each.

"Two bracelets made of square diamonds, each diamond about a carat.

"One emerald bracelet, the emeralds being about one carat each.

"He also had a diamond wristwatch and a ball watch made of diamonds with a platinum chain, and gorgeous diamond hatpins—one of the hatpins she said Mr. Leeds had brought from Europe. It was of gold daisies set with real emeralds.

CHANGED COLOR OF HAIR.

The beauty specialist would not forget her profession as she spoke and recalled that in consulting her last year Mrs. Leeds said:

"I want to have my hair bleached to a lighter shade. You see it was quite blonde once and then it changed to a brick red color."

From another witness who was close to the Leeds girl, the reporter gleaned details that fit into the beautifier's narrative. Said this woman:

"Of course, Jay Leeds called Stillman daddy, not only to New York but to Florida. He had a better right! Didn't you know how all of Florence's bills were paid in Miami? Why, through the First National Bank there. That was arranged. All the tradesmen had to do was to present the bills, and the bank paid them without scarcely a question, though they had one man who gave up a lot of time handling these accounts."

"I'd Like to Answer Father With My Fists," Says "Bud" Stillman

"BUD" STILLMAN.

New York, June 23.—"I want an opportunity to face my father in court.

"I want to testify for my mother and my brother Guy.

"I want to tell how my father broke his pledge to me a year ago; how he saw me safely out of the country after promising me he would let mother secure a quiet divorce, and then how he tried to force a 'confession' from her and carry out his scheme to ruin her."

His firm but boyish tones vibrant with indignation, these words came from the seventeen-year-old lips of James A. Stillman's eldest son, Bud.

They carried the certainty of further dramatics in the celebrated case, for they showed clearly that Bud would be an important witness for his accused mother.

"I'd settle this thing with my fists, if I could," asserted young James Stillman. "But I can't. So I'll take the stand and tell how my father broke his word to me. That is why I have despised him for a year—I will never recognize him as my father.

GIRL TELLS OF GREELY KISSES

Pretty Susan Benson Admits Daily Osculation With Aged Banker

Cyrus Greely, the seventy-eight-year-old Lewiston, Me., banker, used to kiss pretty Miss Susan Benson at least once a day for three years, two weeks when she lived at his home.

This fact was made known when Miss Benson's deposition was read in the $100,000 suit brought by Mrs. Jane Frye Rogers against Frederick Greely, a cousin of Cyrus Greely. Mrs. Rogers alleges that Frederick Greeley barred her from sharing in the Cyrus Greely estate by preventing their proposed marriage.

Miss Benson admitted that Cyrus Greely used to kiss her night and morning. After a great deal of sharp questioning, she also admitted, reluctantly, that he used to kiss her "between times" while they sat together in the sitting room.

Miss Benson declared that she had tried to keep Mrs. Rogers from marrying Cyrus, and that at one time she dragged Cyrus away bodily when she found him walking on the street with Mrs. Rogers.

The women graduates joined the parade in the vicinity of Lawrence Hall and proceeded to Sanders Theatre, where they were given their degrees of masters of education.

President Lowell awarded the degrees.

Senator Henry Cabot Lodge for the fiftieth successive year marched with his class in the procession to Sanders Theatre for the formal commencement. Other notables in line were Franklin D. The Graduate School of Arts and Sciences had 118 masters of arts and 34 doctors of philosophy. The Engineering School graduated 17 bachelors of science and nine masters of science. Donnell Will Face Smith in Allen's Presence

District Attorney S. Howard Donnell of Essex County and Earnest E. Smith, the Boston br oker, who said that a little money "put in the right place" would have saved him from prosecution, will face each other across a con ference table in Attorney-General Allen's offices at the State House.

Allen said today that he would hear Smith's demand for an investigation of the facts which led to a criminal indictment against him in Essex County, and that he will ask Donnell to take part in the conference.

Smith, former city councillor and candidate for Mayor, was head of Earnest E. Smith & Co., a brokerage house now being liquidated. Smith, "Nat" Niles and A. S. Dabney, the tennis players, who were members of the firm, were indicted in Essex County on a charge that they accepted $10,000 from a customer knowing that the firm was insolvent.

When Smith said that money, "put in the right place," would have saved him and his associates from prosecution, Donnell said there was no doubt to whom Smith referred and threatened to bring suit for libel.

Smith asked Allen for an investigation.

TUFTS MYSTERY WOMAN INSANE

Grace Farley in Alleged Secret Indictment Suppression Is Found at Danvers

avenue, Medford, for more than twelve years under the name of "Mrs. Grace Goodwin." Her life story is pathetic. She sued William De-Ford Bigelow for alleged breach of promise to marry.

The secret indictment pending against Bigelow, in Middlesex County, which Attorney General Allen takes District Attorney Tufts to task for not prosecuting, was based on Bigelow's alleged relations with the Farley woman.

Bigelow engaged Attorney Daniel H. Coakley to defend him in the action brought by Grace Farley. Coakley entered suit against Bigelow for $50,000 as counsel fee in this case, and Special Attorney-General Hurlburt is counsel of record for Coakley.

EXPOSE THRILLS HARVARD.

District Attorney Nathan A. Tufts charges Hurlburt with having tried to induce him to press the secret indictment against Bigelow, in order to "act as a lever" in the Coakley suit.

Connected with one of the most prominent families in Massachusetts and a Harvard man, the revelations in the case of William DeFord Bigelow are coming during Commencement Week, thrilled society.

Bigelow was graduated from Harvard, the class of 1900 with the degree of A. B. He married Helen Harding of Cohasset on June 7, 1902. There is one son, Richard H. Bigelow. The family residence is on Jerusalem Road, Cohasset, and Bigelow's business address is No. 19 Milk street, Boston.

BIGELOW IS CLUBMAN.

Bigelow entered the building contracting business two years after graduation, and was for a time senior member of the firm of Bigelow & Harriman, building contractors. His firm built President Lowell's home in College Yard, Harvard. He has traveled extensively with his wife in this country and abroad. He prepared for college at Milton Academy.

He is an enthusiastic hunter and a crack shot with pistol and rifle. He is a member of the Somerset and Union clubs of Boston, the Harvard Club of New York, the Association of Harvard Engineers, the Master Builders' Association of Boston and fraternal organizations. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Bigelow and Mary De Ford Bigelow.

MET HER AFTER MARRIAGE.

Soon after his marriage Bigelow is alleged to have made the acquaintance of Grace Farley, an attractive brunette, in whose company he soon began, according to reports in legal circles, Grace Farley is now forty years of age. When she rented apartments in Medford she adopted the name "Mrs. Grace Goodwin." She never spoke of her husband. Neighbors knew that her maiden name was Farley. A daughter was born to her while she lived in Medford.

Her friends and neighbors early received the impression that Mrs. Goodwin derived an income from a wealthy Boston man." She dressed richly and was a beautiful woman until her recent illness. She told confidants that she received $100 a month. Wives are said by the neighbors in Medford to have told Mrs. Goodwin that the men in the case was not paying her enough and she entered suit.

SHE BECAME DESTITUTE.

This suit is still pending in the Superior Court in Suffolk County. Mrs. Goodwin was very active in her legal steps and engaged various lawyers. She made little headway and finally became so discouraged that she lodged a complaint with the Bar Association.

In the Spring of 1920 she was destitute and became a ward of the city of Medford. She was sent to the almshouse and remained there a night. Edward W. Forbes, who has charge of the almshouse, said Mrs. Goodwin was not listed as an inmate by request of the overseers of the poor. She further stated that on the order of Dr. Hawkes, a local physician, Mrs. Goodwin was committed to Danvers as she gave a great deal of trouble at the almshouse and became violent.

TURNED AGAINST DAUGHTER.

"She escaped twice within two weeks," said Mrs. Newhall. "She showed signs of having been a very intelligent and beautiful woman. She kept two poodles with her. The first time she escaped she went to the home of a prominent man in Brookline and was reported to have thrown a cup of hot coffee in his wife's face.

"The police were notified but Mrs. Goodwin eluded them. I was driving from the almshouse to town in my carriage, when I came across Mrs. Goodwin in the woods. I asked her to come with me and she struck at me twice. I finally induced her to accompany me. She escaped and was recaptured on another occasion.

"She had the hallucination that some mysterious person was constantly in the room with her. She finally turned against her own daughter, Viola, and became so dangerous that the overseers of the poor had her committed."

HUNT MANIAC AS WOMAN SLAYER

Long Island Police Believe Madman Killed Wealthy Gotham Widow

By International News Service.

New York, June 23.—A maniac, whose distorted mind gloats upon violent death and blood, is being sought in Long Island today following the brutal murder of Mrs. Minnie H. Bartlett, fifty-year-old widow of a wealthy New York merchant, in her home at West Hempstead.

When the battered corpse was found it was believed robbery was the motive of the assassin, but later the theory was advanced that the woman had been killed by a madman.

Mrs. Bartlett was shot three times, stabbed in the neck and her arms, legs and face slashed with a keen knife or razor. Her clothing was torn to shreds.

The Bartlett mansion is in an isolated district and no one has yet been found who heard any cries from the building.

In a wild frenzy the murderer went from room to room, smashing furniture and tearing up clothing, and many finger prints were obtained by the police, as the hands of the dead had become covered with blood as he exhausted his frenzy.

EVELYN IS HAPPY IN FOOD SHOP

Former Mrs. Harry Thaw Surprises Chef With Her Own Recipes

New York, June 23.—Evelyn Nesbit, she of the former Thaw connection, who once raced before the eyes of the world in big black type half a column high, has reduced her publicity displacement.

Neat gold lettering, six-point size or thereabout, now spells the name that once set a nation vibrating.

The name is on a lower corner of a plate glass window, of the tiny "specialty food shop" on 55d street conducted by the former member of the original Florodora Sextette.

She declared that her shop, for which she said she has given up the stage temporarily, at least, promises to be most successful of all her public appearances. She explained the "specialty" angle:

"It's because of my 'special' clientele—not so mixed. Movie people and song writers and Fifth avenue society women and men and stage people.

"Besides the cuisine is special, too, Southern dishes—old family recipes.

"Beer ice cream in New York, I make it myself. I brought the recipes into the business and I supervise the way they're put up.

"I amazed the chef, let me tell you, with my first knowledge of cooking. What I know about preparing food would amaze every body. And the best little thing I make is ice cream. People send for it from all round the neighborhood and over on Broadway."

General Charles H. Taylor, for forty-eight years editor and publisher of the Boston Globe, will be buried from Trinity Church, Copley Square, tomorrow afternoon.

The death of the veteran publisher was preceded by a slight shock which he suffered about a week ago while taking a walk with one of his sons.

He directed certain phases of his work in connection with the Globe up to the day of his death.

General Taylor was the oldest in active service among American newspaper publishers. He was born near Bunker Hill on July 14, 1846, and began his newspaper career at the age of fifteen.

300 More Suits

Shantung / Pongee $14

For Misses and Small Women (Sixth Floor)

Each time we have offered these suits at this surprising price they have been sold out on the day they were placed on sale. As they are now most seasonable the demand is great, and we considered ourselves fortunate that we were able to buy three hundred more.

The new lot is in every way the equal of the previous offerings, the same excellence of workmanship, the same styles that won immediate popularity, the same high quality of material.

FIND TITLE IN LIST.

The Songs of the World Test consists of sixty Test Pictures—No. 13 is printed today—and Lists of Titles containing, among others, the Correct Titles.

Find today's Correct Title in today's List of Titles and you will have completed 1-60 of the work of the Test and be that far advanced towards one of the $1,000 awards.

It is by no means as easy as it looks. It is possible, the artist says, that one or many persons may write sixty Correct Titles. "But," he adds, "it is improbable."

The titles used in the Test are and will be the titles of songs. They may be American, English, Canadian, Irish, Scottish or other songs, "Songs of the World."

CAN START NOW.

From the beginning to the end of the Test the List of Titles will be of at least as much importance as the Test Picture. It is important to understand this from the beginning.

You can start in the Test NOW by writing a title for today's picture. Then, get tomorrow's Boston American. Keep up with the Test from day to day. In the course of ten days or two weeks the Test Editor hopes to arrange ONE printing of Each Pictures. These pictures will not be as large as today's picture, but they nevertheless will serve every Test purpose.

It is not necessary to buy the Boston American in order to take part in the Test. COPIES of the Test Pictures will be equally as acceptable as Test Pictures clipped from the paper. Thus, with but one copy of the Boston American for the household, every member of the family may take part in the Test and submit sets of Test Pictures. According to the rules, however, only one award will be paid to one family.

READ THE RULES.

Every participant in the $6,000 Songs of the World Title Test should read the Rules of the Test.

In writing titles, you may use pencil, ink or typewriter. Or, you may cut the title from the List of Titles and paste it on.

If you prefer, you may paste the Test Pictures in a book and write below them, on the book-paper, the titles and the information called for by the coupon: name, address, etc.

Test Pictures must NOT be sent in before the close of the Test.

The Songs of the World Test is exclusively a Boston American entertainment and possible profit of readers of this newspaper residing in New England or Canada. The Test Pictures will not be printed on Sunday. They will be seen in no other newspaper.

Please remember that the Boston American is not a dealer in book numbers of the newspaper. The ONLY way to get the Boston American regularly is through the newsdealer. This office is not in competition with the newsdealer.

HAWES ATTACKS ANTI-BEER BILL

Washington, June 23.—The new Volstead anti-beer bill is a "ridiculous piece of legislation and constitutes a direct reflection on 145,000 reputable physicians in the United States, by putting them in the "bootlegging" class, it was charged on the floor of the House by Representative Harry B. Hawes of St. Louis, in attacking the measure. It is also a blow, he said, to many thousands of necessary industries. He asked the rules committee not to bring in any rule under which the bill could be brought before the House for action.

Constipated For 30 Years

Permanently Relieved by "Cereal Meal"

When a business man of large affairs has suffered from the many handicaps of Constipation and its dangerous partner, Auto-Intoxication, for much a period, it is fair to presume that he has tried every known remedy. And when permanent relief is found in a delicious Breakfast Food which operates in a purely natural way, without the slightest shock to the system, it is indeed a noteworthy performance.

Here is an unsolicited letter from the gentleman:

Feb. 1st, 1921.

Dear Sirs:

Permit me to make the following statement. I, A. P., senior member of the firm of P. Reed, had been a sufferer from chronic constipation all my life.

For thirty I had been taking medicine for this trouble, but could get no permanent relief, and at the time I saw your advertisement of Cereal Meal, I was so run down as to be hardly able to walk, and was a physical wreck.

I ordered a package of your Cereal Meal and soon noticed great improvement in my condition; after fifteen days I threw away my pill boxes, and use no regulator but your Cereal Meal.

Today, at the age of 47, I attend to my executive business affairs every day, and am feeling better than for thirty years.

I enclose check for 24 packages.

Very truly yours,

A. P.

Eaten daily, Cereal Meal insures one against Auto-Intoxication, and permanently relieves Constipation.

Though advertised but a short time, it is now being used in 4400 homes in the State of Massachusetts alone.

Cereal Meal can be obtained at the better Grocers and Druggists; if you haven't it, the H. H. Pierce Co. of Boston are wholesale and retail distributors.

The strongest of guarantees goes with each package, for if you are not entirely pleased with Cereal Meal in every way, your dealer is authorized to refund the full purchase price, if you return the unused portion to him as unsatisfactory.—Advertisement.

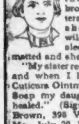
Mrs. Ethel M. Brown Tells How Cuticura Healed Daughter



"A small eruption came at the corner of my daughter's mouth and spread all over her face and head and down her throat and chest. It broke out like water blisters, and itched so that she would almost go wild, and she could not sleep. Her hair was matted and she was disfigured.

"My sister recommended Cuticura, and when I had used one box of Cuticura Ointment with the Cuticura Soap, my daughter was completely healed." (Signed) Mrs. Ethel M. Brown, 398 Water St., Ellsworth, Me., July 29, 1920.

Clear the pores of impurities by daily use of Cuticura Soap and occasional touches of Cuticura Ointment as needed to soothe, soften and heal. They are ideal for the toilet, as is also Cuticura Talcum for perfuming.

Teamster's Life Saved

Writes Letter That Is Worth Reading Very Carefully

Peterson Ointment Co., Inc., Buffalo, N. Y.: I was afflicted with a very severe sore on my face over a year as a teamster. I tried all medicines and salves, but without success. I tried doctors, but they failed to cure me. I suffered from my sore day and night in pain. Doctors said I could not live more than two years. Finally Peterson's Ointment was recommended to me and, to my surprise, the sore started to heal. Thankfully yours, William Hauser, West Park, Ohio, March 23, 1915, care P. O. Route, Box 198."

Peterson says: "I am proud of the above letter and have hundreds of others that tell of wonderful cures of Eczema, Piles and Skin Diseases."

Peterson's Ointment is 35 cents a large box at all druggists, and there isn't a broad-minded druggist in America who won't praise it. Mail orders filled by Peterson Ointment Co., Inc., Buffalo, N. Y.—Advertisement.

UNION SUBMITS PEACE OFFER

Electrical Workers Willing to Accept 90-Cent Rate Pending Arbitration

The International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, Local 103, 800 members of which have been on strike for six months, offers to return to work at the rate offered by employers, ninety cents an hour, if the latter will agree to arbitration at some later date.

The union men suggest the National Council as an arbitration medium.

The offer is contained in a letter to the Electrical Contractors' association and individual contractors.

Union officials point out that "the loss of business to the contractor and the loss of wages to the union have been sufficient to demonstrate that little is to be gained by a continuation of the situation."

In addition, the letter says, "we are giving consideration to the general public inconvenience."

"The members of the union therefore offer to return to work for their respective employers; the matter of wages to be left to the discretion of the individual employer or electrical employers as an association; and the entire subject referred for adjustment as suggested; the wage rate established by either the National Council or the Board of Arbitration to be retroactive to the date work was resumed."

George H. Quimby, president of the Electrical Contractors' Association, said today that the matter of settlement does not rest with the employers and the association, but with the workers and the building Trades Employers' Association.

He declared, however, that the electrical employers will not accept the present proposal of the union men and will not agree to discuss terms with them until they return to work at the rate now offered.

The matter of arbitration was broached months ago by the employers he said, and at that time union officials refused to consider it.

The electricians, the plasterers and plumbers are the only trades that have not returned to work since the calling of the general building strike more than six months ago.

HE WOULDN'T TAKE FORTUNE FOR IT

J. J. Fitzpatrick Says Fifty Thousand Dollars Couldn't Buy This Good Tanlac Did Him.

"I wouldn't sell up the good Tanlac has done me for fifty thousand dollars in cash," was the emphatic statement made by James J. Fitzpatrick, 9 Bellington Ave., Roxbury, Mass., well known employe of the National Analine & Chemical Company of Boston.

"It just seemed that Tanlac was made specially for my case, for the way it has restored my health is simply remarkable. For six months before I commenced taking it my whole system was out of order. My stomach was in such an awful fix I could hardly eat anything, and often I had spells of indigestion when I thought surely my time had come, for the gas on my stomach would almost choke me and the pains nearly drove me distracted. I was so nervous I never got any good sleep. I had rheumatism, too, in my neck and limbs, and pains in my back. I was so bad I just could limp around, and could hardly make any headway at the plant.

"I had been disappointed by so many medicines that I had but very little confidence in Tanlac, but since taking it I can tell anybody they can depend on it, and I wouldn't think of being without it myself. My stomach trouble and rheumatism are entirely gone, and I am eating, sleeping and getting about just like a school boy. My wife packs my lunch and I am full of good hearty foods, and I never have a bit of it to bring home. In short, I have never felt better in my life, and I gladly tell everyone Tanlac is the greatest medicine on earth."

Tanlac is distributed by International Proprietaries, Inc., and sold in Boston by all Liggett's drug stores.—Advertisement.

Girls! That Derwillo Complexion is a "Stay There" Complexion

So why waste time on face powder that comes off as fast as you put it on when you can use derwillo, the "stay there" beautifier? Hot weather or perspiration does not affect it and when applied properly its use cannot be detected. It gives the skin that youthful baby-like softness and rosy tint every normal woman craves. Just make this test: Some night use your regular face powder, time it by your watch and see how long it stays on. Then powder exactly the same conditions use derwillo and note the difference. It does only stays on longer, but it looks more natural. Compare it with any beautifier or powder you have ever used and you will need no argument to convince you that there is nothing as satisfactory as derwillo. Try it when you go bathing and see how much better it stays on than any face powder regardless of the price. No other beautifier or face powder can give you a more attractive appearance. Derwillo is becoming a regular fad everywhere and over one million girls and women are now using it in preference to everything else. Actresses use more face powder than any other class and they know how harmful some powders are. For that reason many of them now use derwillo. They have learned by thoroughly testing it that it is not only harmless, but beneficial to any skin and instantly imparts that exquisite loveliness so much desired. That is why derwillo users have such healthy, smooth, beautiful complexions. Some of the prominent actresses using derwillo are Dorothy Dalton, Mitzi, Louise Glaum, Viola Dana, Anna Q. Nilsson, Louise Huff, Ruth Roland and scores of others. If you use derwillo once you will become just as enthusiastic as they are and never be without it. Another important thing to remember is that no other beautifier is made under the same guarantee. If you don't like derwillo, the store from whom you made the purchase will gladly refund your money. This liberal guarantee speaks volumes for the satisfaction it gives. You can get derwillo at the toilet counters of all department stores and up-to-date druggists everywhere. If they should happen to be out they will be glad to order it for you. Since derwillo has made such a phenomenal success it has many imitators, but you know counterfeits are never as good as the genuine article. Do not accept a substitute then you won't be disappointed, insist on derwillo or nothing. Any reliable store will get it for you if you insist upon it.

NOTE—Derwillo is sold in this city under money-back guarantee at all toilet counters.

Thousands of Women are Weak, Nervous, Irritable, Easily Upset All Because Their Blood Lacks Iron

Most women need to eat more SPINACH AND CARROTS, other iron-containing vegetables and re-inforce them occasionally with a little organic iron to help enrich their blood and REVITALIZE THEIR WORNOUT EXHAUSTED NERVES.

When your BLOOD becomes THIN, PALE AND WATERY it loses its power to change food into living tissue and therefore your nerves and other vital parts of your body do not receive sufficient nourishment—YOUR NERVE FORCE BECOMES WEAKENED and you become "run-down," cross, complaining, nervous, irritable and easily upset.

You may also suffer from pains and aches across the back or in the head, disturbed digestion, loss of memory, weakened will power, melancholy, hysteria, shortness of breath, heart palpitation and numerous other symptoms all because of iron starvation of the blood. Women specially need iron even more than men on account of the heavier demands nature makes on them.

When your blood is starving for iron, no mere tonics or stimulants can put you right. Starving blood must have iron the same as a starving person must have food—iron in red blood food and you must take iron to supply such food. But be sure the iron you take is organic iron or you will get little benefit. Ordinary metallic iron is not organic iron as it come from the action of strong acid on small pieces of iron and is therefore entirely different from organic iron. Organic iron is like the iron in your blood and like the iron in spinach, lentils and apples. It may be had from your druggist under the name of Nuxated Iron. Nuxated Iron also contains a remarkable product brought to the attention of the French Academy of Medicine by the celebrated Dr. Bunge, which represents the principal chemical constituent of arriving living nerve force. FOR FEEDING THE NERVES, so that NUXATED IRON might be sold to be both a BLOOD and a NERVE FOOD. Over 4,000,000 people annually are using Nuxated Iron. It will not injure the teeth nor distress the stomach. Your money will be refunded by the manufacturers if you do not obtain entire satisfaction after a few weeks' use. Always insist on having genuine organic iron—Nuxated Iron. Look for the letters N. I. on every tablet. At all druggists.

At 47—Vitality Better Than Ever

Boston Man, Weak and Run-down, Feels 20 Years Younger after Gland Tablets.

"After being in a weakened and run-down condition for many months, during which it seemed every bit of vitality left my body, today I feel 20 years younger and have never had more energy and ambition than I have right now. My friends say they never saw me looking better and I never hesitate to tell them that it is Glandex Compound, the new gland tonic, that put me on my feet again," said Mr. Edward Malloy, of 36 Sarsfield St., this city.

"My ill health began with an attack of pneumonia two years ago. I had no appetite, could gain no strength, my kidneys got out of order and I suffered with backaches. I was frightfully nervous and felt very poorly.

"I had only taken Glandex a few days when I noticed a big improvement. I have only taken three bottles, yet I have gained 10 pounds, my stomach and kidneys are in fine condition again and I have fully regained my strength and vitality. My Nerves are calm and I sleep fine every night. I am only too glad to recommend Glandex to others."

The reason Glandex brings such amazing results in so many cases is because it helps build up run-down glands which scientists now says are the cause of many run-down conditions. Glandex feeds run-down human glands with extracts taken from the glands of vigorous sheep and cattle. Practically on the same principle as re-charging a storage battery! Also contains iron and other well known health builders.

If weak, pale, thin or generally run-down try this remarkable tonic. Brings results—or your money back. Has helped thousands to regain health and strength. Try a bottle! Sold at good druggists everywhere.

SHAW SEES NEW WAR ON U. S.

British Writer Finds Equivalent to Hostile Declaration in Lloyd George's Speech

By GEORGE BERNARD SHAW.

London, June 23.—Lloyd George has declared war on America. The declaration as reported runs as follows:

"We are now ready to discuss with American statesmen any proposal for the limitation of armaments which they may wish to put out and we can undertake that no such overtures will find a lack of willingness on our part to meet them.

"In the meantime we cannot forget that the very life of the United Kingdom, as also of Australia and New Zealand—indeed the whole of the empire—has been built upon sea power, and that sea power is necessarily the basis of the whole empire's existence.

"We have, therefore, to look to measures which our security requires. We aim at nothing more. We cannot possibly be content with less."

CONCLUSIVE ARGUMENT.

This is conclusive. There can be no security for the British Empire until the American fleet has followed the German fleet to the bottom of the sea.

The Japanese fleet will no doubt be happy to assist in the operation, but as there can be no security for Australia while the Japanese fleet exists, it too must perish subsequently.

Thus our western program, beginning with Ireland (described by Winston Churchill as "a region of danger for the British empire"), includes two first rate wars within the next twenty years.

But what about our Eastern program? It is clearly out of the question. France, now once more up to her eyes in military glory, should be allowed to maintain a formidable naval armament and range her fortified harbors within gunshot of our shores (actually nearer than Ireland).

FRENCH FLEET DOOMED.

How can we sleep in security under such circumstances? We must sink the French fleet with Germany's assistance.

There is also the question of security at home. We have among us large numbers of disbanded soldiers, demobilized and inured to violence and destruction by the war.

We have Sinn Feiners, direct actionists of the extreme left, shell shocked lunatics and the usual percentage of criminals. Our lives are not secure under such circumstances.

ALL IN HANDCUFFS.

To make the country safe it is necessary that every person shall be handcuffed and not allowed to leave the house without a passport and then only at hours strictly limited by curfew on pain of being shot at night.

Are Englishmen to be asked to take the advice of the German philosopher and live dangerously?

Mr. Lloyd George says "No." In every speech he returns to the demand for "security, security." That is the keynote of his policy, the cry with which he brings us all to heel.

I am not writing this to support his policy. I have done without security all my life, and have never had less of it than when all the cowards in Europe were fighting for security.

SECURITY IS IMPOSSIBLE.

I know that security is impossible and that nobody but a hopeless idiot or a person condemned to Parliament for the term of his natural life (much the same thing) could for one moment believe it to be possible for us, the first condition being that one power shall exterminate all other powers, and its final condition being that one man in that power (which one, by the way) shall exterminate all his fellowmen.

Give me difficulty all the time, or even danger all the time, but destruction, no; not even when it is labelled "security," in Mr. Lloyd George's best handwriting.

I hereby publicly warn all canvassers that I will not vote for any candidate who is out for the security of the Empire or anything else.

After life's fitful fever, I will sleep well, but I do not need to have that extremely secure consummation unduly hurried by any new American poison gas or the torrents of shrapnel which our aircraft guns will fire at the moon to protect us against it.

B. & M. ASKS LOAN FROM GOVERNMENT

Washington, June 23.—The Boston & Maine Railroad Company today asked the Interstate Commerce Commission for a government loan of $3,049,000 for fifteen years and offered as security bonds secured by a general mortgage upon all of its properties and franchises. In its petition the carrier says that if the loan is not granted it would seriously impair the ability of the railroad to provide adequate service.

The measure is now ready for the President's signature.

Kidney and Bladder Troubles Conquered or Money Back

For 40 years, says Dr. Carey, I have been prescribing Marshrool for kidney and bladder sickness, and now that I have retired from active practice I have made arrangements with leading druggists to dispense this wonderful prescription at a moderate price, on the money back if dissatisfied plan.

Dropsy of kidney disease—incurable die of it every year who might be enjoying the blessings of life and health. Watch the symptoms. If you have specks floating before your eyes, puffy eyes, chronic feet or moist palms, backache or sideache, you ought to get a bottle of Dr. Carey's Marshrool right away.

It has wonderfully benefited tens of thousands of cases of kidney and bladder troubles and is the medicine you can always depend upon. Results are guaranteed.

NOTE: Dr. Daniel G. Carey was a practicing physician for many years, and his original Prescription, Marshrool, aided thousands of sufferers from kidney and bladder troubles. Hereafter you can always get this effective Prescription, Dr. Carey's Marshrool, at Liggett's Rexall Drug Company, Arnstrong-Co.'s Stores and all reliable pharmacists the country over. CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS

Small Pill—Small Dose—Small Price

DELIGHTFUL HAIR WASH

You can enjoy a delightful shampoo with very little effort and for a very trifling cost, if you get from your druggist's a package of canthrox and dissolve a teaspoonful in a cup of hot water. This makes a full cup of shampoo liquid, enough so it is easy to apply it to all the hair instead of just the top of the head. Your shampoo is now ready. Just pour a little at a time on the scalp and hair until both are entirely covered by the daintily perfumed preparation that thoroughly dissolves and removes every bit of dandruff, excess oil and dirt. After rinsing the hair dries quickly with a fluffiness that makes it seem heavier than it is, and takes on a rich lustre and a softness that makes arranging it a pleasure.—Advertisement.

APPROVES LOOP UNDERGROUND

Boston Transit Commission to Complete Project by Fall

Transportation improvement involving $1,700,000 was approved by the Boston Transit commission today.

The project will benefit East Boston, Chelsea, Revere, Winthrop and all stations beyond those points reached by cars running through the East Boston tunnel.

The improvement will be brought about by an underground loop at Maverick square, East Boston.

Some time ago it was proposed that congestion be relieved by an overhead loop at Maverick square, but after the situation has been thoroughly studied by engineers of the Transit Commission and Boston Elevated Company it was agreed that the overhead loop would be impracticable.

The underground loop, it is expected, will be completed this Fall, and in order to expedite it the project may not be let out to contractors, but may be done by the Transit Commission.

The Boston end of the loop will be Scollay square and there will be an underground station at Maverick square.

Commissioner of Public works Thomas F. Sullivan announced today that there will be seven ferry boats running on the East Boston and Chelsea service by September 1.

CHICOPEE WANTS LONGER CAR ZONES

Chicopee citizens, headed by J. J. Jennings, today appealed to the State Department of Public Utilities to lengthen the zones on the Holyoke Street Railway Company in Chicopee without increasing the fares. The present fare is about three cents a mile. They asked for a mile extension on each of three important city lines. President Louis D. Pelletier said if the extension were made the company would lose money.

WEST POINT CADETS SCORE IN GUN TESTS

Great success with twelve-inch rifles and twelve-inch mortars was scored by a group of 150 West Point cadets in their trial practices at Fort H. G. Wright, off New London. They acted as gunners and cannoneers. The cadets left today for West Point on the mine-planter General Baird.

Fresh From Paris

PARIS, France.

FOR Summer mornings or informal afternoon occasions organdie suggests itself by nature of its crisp coolness. The little frock shown, of tangerine organdie, is trimmed with strips of pleated self material, and banded at both edges with French blue cire braid, and braid also trims the skirt edge. The generous sash is of French blue organdie.

NO more attractive mode of simple decoration has yet been devised than the various forms of ribbon trimming that have been seen this Summer. Long, slender streamers float from flower-decked garden hats. A gay little picoted ribbon tie may complete the silk sports shirt. Lines of flat ribbon loops ascend the skirt of an afternoon frock, and any manner of dress may have a wide, deeply fringed ribbon sash. And so it goes! In a demure little white dotted Swiss, spotted in red, rows of flat loops of white cire ribbon are cleverly substituted for collar and belt. The white cire ribbon that is run through the belt loops ends in a surprising number of larger loops, after the fashion of a rosette, at the back. Tiny ribbon bows trim the sleeves as well. The tan straw hat, in shape rather resembling the poke, fairly drips grass and little pimento red flowers.

SAYS COWS CAUSE TUBERCULOSIS

"We can never eradicate tuberculosis in human beings while we nourish it in bovines." Dr. John F. Devine said to the conference of Federal, New England States and other animal-industry experts at the State House today. Dr. E. C. Schroeder of the United States Bureau of Animal Industry said infected animals can be treated successfully with tuberculin.

20 INDIANS RAID INDIA WHARF

Passamaquoddies on Way to Plymouth Pay Visit to Calvin Austin

Twenty braves of the Passamaquoddy tribe, with flaring war bonnets and war paint, raided the offices of the Eastern Steamship Lines, Inc., on India Wharf early today.

They were headed by a full-blooded Indian buck, Calvin Austin, who denies the fact that he is just seven years old, sported all the war regalia of his ancient forebears.

President Calvin Austin, after whom the boy was named, sent the party, which numbers thirty-five in all and is on its way to the Pilgrim Tercentennial celebration at Plymouth, on an extended sightseeing tour of the city.

The party arrived on the Governor Dingley from their reservation near Eastport, Me.

Two members of the Penobscot tribe, John J. Nasco and Newell Tomah, arrived yesterday in an eighteen-foot birch bark canoe, having paddled down from Old Town, Me. They are also on their way to Plymouth.

FISKE ASKS BIG NAVY IN PACIFIC

Believes Philippines Possess Key to Trade Supremacy in Far East

Washington, June 23.—Rear Admiral Fiske has issued a statement urging Congress to provide a strong navy to give the Philippine Islands ample protection. The statement says:

"Admiral Jellicoe's plan for a big navy in the Pacific for Great Britain and Japan is merely one for perpetuating a state of affairs that has lasted for many years, namely, British trade supremacy in the Far East.

"According to the decision which Congress now shall make the United States will be led on to fortune, or will abandon fortune to Jellicoe and Japan.

"Admiral Jellicoe, as a patriotic and able statesman, suggests an increase of British naval power in the Pacific in order to maintain it.

"How long would the British Empire live if British trade should die

"But Admiral Jellicoe, and the entire world besides, has overlooked the key to the whole Pacific question though it lies directly in front of them—the Philippines. The Philippines and Japan constitute doors from the Pacific to China and lie on the flank of the roadway to China from the Mediterranean."

Dawes Gets Budget Going With a Bang

By International News Service.

Washington, June 23.—General Charles G. Dawes of "Hell and Marie" fame, came to Washington today to take charge of the national budget system, and immediately things began to happen.

Within a few hours after his arrival, General Dawes had held a long conference with the President, selected the four men he is allowed as assistants, criticised Congress, and announced that he was going to "conscript" about thirty or forty American business men to get the budget system started on a sound basis.

"We have just five months to do this job," he said; "it must be in operation by December 1. My one connecting with the budget will cease after the first budget is made, providing that the machinery is operating efficiently at that time."

MEMBER BOSTON BETTER BUSINESS BUREAU

News of Motion Picture World

By FRIEDA DAVIS.

THERE'S room for everyone in the movies, and there are few who can resist its call. There was a time when actors and directors were the only persons in demand. Then the need for something for them to work with became apparent and writers came into their own.

Since then every branch of the industry has been developed, and the producers insisted on the best to work out their systems of photography, costume and scenery designing, etc. Those who at one time scoffed at the movies are now scrambling to get in.

Who can scoff when such people as Sir Gilbert Parker, Sir James M. Barrie, E. Phillips Oppenheim, Somerset Maugham, Avery Hopwood and others have taken them up and are making a thorough study of the industry in order to give it their best work?

FAMOUS DESIGNERS.

But that end of the business is not the only one to attract celebrities. Consider the list of those who help make Paramount Pictures among the best there are. On the art staff of the Famous Players' Hollywood studio are Paul Iribi, the French artist who designed the creations of Poiret and Paquin in Paris. He now designs the costumes for Cecil DeMille's productions. Paul Claflin is another of this staff. He designed the decorations for New York city for the return of the troops. He has also decorated a number of the large homes in New York city.

Penrhyn Stanlaws, well known magazine illustrator and portrait painter, has given up that work in order to become a director for Realart. Among those who write titles and illustrate them are Tom McNamara, creator of the Skinny Shaner cartoons and formerly connected with the Paris edition of the New York Herald, and Clive Weed, one time cartoonist of the Evening Sun, the New York Tribune and the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

COLLEGE PROFESSORS.

Professor James A. B. Sherer, president of the California Institute of Technology, has given up that position to sign up as scenarist with Paramount. Dr. George Burbank Shattuck, resigned from the professorship of geology of Vassar College to head the research department at the Paramount Long Island studio.

Fred B. Alexander, formerly tennis singles champion of America and a member of the Davis Cup team, is William DeMille's personal manager. "Kid" Broad, "Kid" McCoy and "Bull" Montana, well known prize fighters and wrestlers, are all "heavies" in the movies.

AND NEWSPAPER MEN.

Many newspaper men have gone into this business. Robert MacAlarney, one time city editor of the New York Tribune, is the production head of the London studios. William C. Bullitt, member of the peace delegation and journalist, is managing editor of Paramount's scenario department. Paul Powell, a director, was a Los Angeles newspaper man. Thomas Geraghty, supervising director of the Eastern studio, was a reporter in New York. Harry Durant, Mr. Lasky's assistant, was editor-in-chief of All-Story Weekly, and Frank Tuttle, a member of the scenario department, was assistant editor of Vanity Fair.

Even the musical end has not been neglected. Hugo Riesenfeld, once concert master of the Royal Opera in Vienna and later of the Manhattan Opera House in New York, is managing large movie theatres and composing musical scores to accompany the films.

Will Rogers is the critic of the films made at the Goldwyn studios in "Knighting for Romeo" he plays before, behind and beside the camera.

PICKFORD-FAIRBANKS' PLANS.

THE long postponed European trip of the Fairbanks is coming off, after all. Mary Pickford will finish filming "Little Lord Fauntleroy" and supervise the cutting and editing, while Doug Fairbanks will shoot the final scenes of "The Three Musketeers" and make "The Virginian."

They expect to finish the work by next October, when they will come East and sail from New York. Their trip will cover the same ground that last year's journey did, with the exception of Belgium. England, France and the Orient are the chief points. It is probable that they will each make a picture while they are overseas, but not together.

JEAN HOPE, an ingenus with the Vanity Fair girls, was married in Hollywood last week to Eddie Boland, who is a comedian in the Hal Roach comedies.

YAT BELARCO has returned to the movies after an absence of several years. He will appear in Christie comedies.

NORMA TALMADGE VACATIONING.

NORMA TALMADGE has spent a month of June in the White Mountains, where she has put the movies entirely out of her mind. But when July comes she will go back to New York to start work on the film version of Jane Cowl's play, "Smilin' Through."

Miss Talmadge has taken Pearl White's Summer home at Bayside, Long Island, for the Summer. Herbert Brenon, who did such splendid work directing Miss Talmadge in "The Passion Flower," will direct "Smilin' Through."

DORIS KENYON BACK.

DORIS KENYON

DORIS KENYON believes in keeping busy, even when other stars are resting through the Summer months. She came back to New York from Atlantic City, where she has appeared in the feature role of "The Love Chef" in a try-out. This stage production will not be seen on Broadway until the middle of August.

Meanwhile Miss Kenyon has carried her make-up box to the Selznick studios in Fort Lee, New Jersey, to appear opposite Conway Tearle in his next production.

DOUGLAS McLEAN FILM FINISHED

FINAL cutting and editing was started this week on "One a Minute," Douglas McLean's next Thomas H. Ince production. This comedy will be released through Paramount at an early date.

"One a Minute" is a satire on the patent medicine trade, and was adapted to the screen by Joseph Franklin Poland from the stage success of that name by Fred Jackson. Marian De Beck plays the leading feminine role.

MARSHALL NEILAN is fast assembling the cast for his next picture, "Bits of Life." He has signed Wilson Clark, the "Frozen Face" in "The Miracle Man," Teddy Sampson, a former bathing beauty, and Anna May Wong, a Chinese girl, for the leading roles. Rockliffe Fellowes, Fred Burton and James Bradbury, Jr., will also be seen in the cast.

CAMERA CLICKS.

EVEN "Darkest Africa" is coming up in the film world. Already a film company has been organized there. Edward Earle, an American camera-man, has been engaged to "shoot" the scenes. The African Film Corporation has already finished the production of Rider Haggard's "Swallow."

TEXAS GUINAN, the famous cow-girl of the movies, has left the West coast for New York after finishing eight "western" it is rumored that she will return to the musical comedy stage that made her famous.

MARSHALL Neilan has left his pallet of grease-paint far behind him in his career of wielding a megaphone. He has put on his paint again for a small part of his next release, "Bits of Life," in which he appears as himself in a novel scene of the story.

IT is not generally known, but Max Linder built one of the finest movie theatres in Paris, the "Cine Max Linder."

MUSICAL comedy devotees will recall little Kathleen Clifford, the commedienne and dancer of the New York stage. Miss Clifford, who made a short flurry into the movies some years ago when she appeared as the harassed heroine of a serial, will again appear on the screen. She will play opposite J. P. McGowan in "Cold Steel," a Robertson-Cole picture.

SAYS WIFE STUCK HIM WITH HATPIN

Frank Giacobbe told Judge Flynn in the Suffolk County divorce court that his wife, Mary, stuck a hat pin through a key hole to prick his hands so that he would let go of the door knob on the first floor of a three-story dwelling house on Grant street, Somerville, where he was living.

Giacobbe is seeking a divorce from his wife on the ground of cruel and abusive treatment. His wife, Mary P. Moran, is contesting the suit and has filed a cross suit.

WED 51 YEARS AGO IN BOSTON CHURCH

Mr. and Mrs. George H. Averill today celebrated the 51st anniversary of their marriage in their home at 11 Wollaston avenue, Arlington Heights. They were married in Boston, on June 23, 1870, by the Rev. Edward Everett Hale, and a few years later went to Arlington Heights, where they have since resided.

WIDOW, 50, WEDS LABORER, 24

Wealthy Cambride Woman in Love Match With Young Cape Cod Workman

the mature bride, of the rather immature bridegroom.

As she explained:

"This interest in my third marriage—to Mr. Dickson—is merely prompted by Cambridge enemies of my second husband, Mr. Royle. He was a politician, you know, and a quarrel of his has descended to me, after his death, and to my new husband.

"Now I married Mr. Dickson because I loved him. That's the usual reason for people getting married, I suppose.

AGE DID NOT ENTER.

The matter of his age and mine did not enter in. Nor did any disloyalty to my second husband, Mr. Royle, figure either. It is not that I love or respect Mr. Royle any the less, because I now also love his successor, Mr. Dickson.

"I married Mr. Dickson, because I believe happiness is our duty to pursue. Happiness, for me, meant Mr. Dickson. Hence this wedding. Now as to years again. If there were twenty years of difference between our ages, and it was on the other side, nobody would say anything.

"As a matter of fact, there was a great deal of difference between Mr. Royle's age and mine. What do a few years mean, on either side, when true love animates the heart?

"In other words, if a woman can love a man twenty years her senior, why can't she also love a man twenty years her junior? One, surely, is as reasonable as the other.

NEAR HEARTS OF PEOPLE.

"In this marriage, I have got very near the hearts of the great working people of our country. As Mr. Royle's wife, in Cambridge, I met the elite, in political and social circles.

"As Mr. Dickson's wife, I know I have married a working man. But that does not disturb me.

"He has to go to the lumber yard, where he is employed, at 7. I get up and drive him there in the automobile. It is just an ordinary day. For I believe that you can find your true love, quite as often, in overalls and in a tailor-made suit.

"The way people have acted about my marriage is disturbing to me. I just wish—Mr. Dickson just wishes, to be left alone, here on Cape Cod, to live quietly by ourselves, with nature and the farm and our gardens and bees and our love, far from the mad city."

ROMANCE THEIRS ALONE.

"Why bother because we are married? Surely romance is a thing which belongs just to the two most concerned."

So spoke Mrs. Dickson, mature and blushing bride. And she spoke in hushed accents, because as she explained, "my husband has gone to bed. You see, we are working people, now, so we go to bed early."

She finished, with more explanation. "I get so weary of all the divorces now in the papers. But I do not become discouraged of masculine human nature. There are good men still in the world—I know, because I married three of them.

"I just refuse to let myself be soured. I believe in work. No I have taken to nursing again to do my share, along with Mr. Dickson. And, when the Winter comes on, I may nurse some more, of course, taking Mr. Dickson with me. For, as to looks—Mr. Dickson's a perfect Apollo—anyone would say so. And strong and masterful."

ROXBURY MAN DIES BY HANGING

The body of Daniel J. Covey, forty years old, was found hanging to the head-post of his bed at No. 115 Walnut street, Roxbury, today. His aged mother, with whom he lived, made the discovery. The body was turned over to Medical Examiner Leary. Coveny left no note explaining his act and his friends say they know of no reason why he should have taken his life.

Cupid Laughs at Age, Says Bride of Fifty

You meet true love in a laborer's overalls quite as often as in a tailor-made suite.

I married Mr. Dickson because I loved him. And it's nobody's business but my own.

My ambition, like that of all new brides, is to spend my time quietly here on Cape Cod, near the Nature's heart, with work and play and love—and Mr. Dickson.

When a heart truly loves, twenty years, more or less, amounts to naught.

As love laughs at locksmiths, so does love laugh at years.

The reason a mature woman, especially a widow, can capture the heart of a very young man is because she is unselfish. For the young woman always talks and thinks of herself. The mature woman forgets herself for her true love.

I could never tell all the details of our romance—that bound to be kept in my heart, and Mr. Dickson's.—A few quotations from Mrs. Lucy S. Royle Dickson, fifty-year-old bride of twenty-four-year-old Fred Dickson of Dennis, Cape Cod.

DOVES BOTHER DIVORCE COURT

Cooing Prevents Judge Flynn From Hearing Evidence in Un-Dovelike Cases

Cooing doves nearly broke up a session of Suffolk County Divorce Court today.

They flapped against the windows perched on the window ledges, and their cries prevented Judge Flynn from hearing the evidence on several divorce cases of a very undovelike nature.

"This is no place for billing and cooing," said an indignant court officer.

The court took more testimony in the cross-divorce suit of Frank Giacobbi and Mary Morsa Giacobbi, formerly of Drake street, Somerville.

Mrs. Johnson Whidden testified of an occasion on which Mrs. Giacobbi insisted in getting into her home by the front window.

She smashed the window. Her husband ran "like a frightened child," according to Mrs. Whidden.

When Mrs. Giacobbi got in, witness continued, she smashed pictures and called her husband a coward.

'AD' MEN HAVE FIELD DAY AT NANTASKET

Boston advertising men packed the 10:15 a. m. boat to Nantasket today when they left for the field day of the Pilgrim Publicity Association. Community singing and an illustrated talk by John Sloan, the cartoonist, were the features of the boat trip.

Luncheon was served at the Villa Napoli, followed by a series of field sports. After a big dinner at the villa the party indulged in dancing and various "stunts."

MISS DEACON GIVES WEDDING DETAILS

Definite details of the wedding on Saturday of Miss Gladys Deacon and the Duke of Marlborough were announced yesterday from Paris. Miss Deacon herself stated that the ceremony would be performed at the home of Eugene Higgins at No. 7 Place d'Iena.

The bride will be attended by a young daughter of the Countess of Bolsenvay. Who the best man is to be the Duke refused to state.

Miss Deacon is stopping at the home of Lord and Lady Wimborne and will remain there until the time for the ceremony.

Rogers—Coughlin

A pretty wedding took place today in the Church of the Most Precious Blood, Hyde Park, when Miss Marguerite Teresa Coughlin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Coughlin, of No. 112 Central avenue, and Francis Joseph Rogers, of No. 56 Garfield avenue, both of Hyde Park, were married by the bridegroom's cousin, Fr. Fr. Richard A. Rogers of the Sacred Heart Church of Watertown.

WORLD SEARCH FOR PIRATES

Ship Logs Checked in Effort to Fix Identity of Mysterious Raider

By International News Service.

Washington, June 23.—Government bureaus cooperating in efforts to solve the mystery of ships recently missing off Cape Hatteras today pinned their hopes to the possibility that a world search now on will establish the identity of a mysterious silent oil-burning vessel which ignored distress calls while in the path of the disabled schooner Carol A. Deering.

Ship logs everywhere are under search for clues to the whereabouts of this silent traveler. She will be traced officials said by a thorough check among marine and insurance companies, of all vessels passing off the North Carolina coast on the dates fixed for the ships listed as lost.

The keeper of the Diamond Shoals lightship made a futile effort to signal the unidentified oil burner to go to the aid of the Deering when the schooner reported her anchors lost. But the oil burner turned on in the Deering's course without rendering aid or responding to the lightship's call. The lightship keeper is said to have provided a description of the ship although her name apparently had been painted out. Not a vestige of conclusive evidence of any kind has been developed from the investigations thus far.

EVERETT GIRL IS VETERAN'S BRIDE

Miss Ruth Elizabeth Baldwin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Baldwin of No. 84 Baldwin avenue, Everette, and former assistant to the Everett city auditor, was married to Ralph Alfred Whittemore at the home of the bride's parents. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Richard H. McLaughlin, pastor of the First Universalist Church. Miss Louise M. Tibbetts, secretary to Mayor Harrison, was bridesmaid and Earle E. Walworth of Everett best man. The bridegroom is a A. E. F. veteran.

GIVE DIPLOMAS TO 350 E. H. S. GRADS

The National Theatre, Tremont street, was crowded when 350 graduates of the English High School received diplomas. Lanuis Nazzaro, the class vice-president, was awarded the Cumston prize, $200, for general rectitude and manliness. Richard J. Lane, of the Boston School Board, called attention to the loyalty graduates recently showed to the school.

Meyer Nimkoff, president of the class, gave an address on success and Landis Nazzaro presented the class with a banner bearing the motto, "Be Clean, Be Courteous, and Be Square."

ARMY AND NAVY VISITS EXCHANGED

Major-General David C. Shanks, commanding the First Corps area, accompanied by Colonel H. O. Learned, chief of staff, Captains Charles T. Estes and Horace B. Smith called upon Rear Admiral Albert Gleaves at the Boston navy yard. Admiral Gleaves returned the call an hour afterwards and spent some time in talking over the work of the corps area.

Paralyzed Veteran Wins Tardy Vindication

By CHARLES O. POWER

Ernest Duchesne, disabled soldier, is a happy boy today. That is, he is just as happy as a paralyzed boy can be, for he has at last received the benefits of tardy justice in the shape of disability compensation.

He has been living at the United States Public Health Hospital on Parker Hill, Roxbury, for many months and most of the time he has not been able to leave his bed. His home is in Woonsocket, R. I.

The day he came up for discharge from the army, he was weak, but, anxious to get to his home and work, he told the doctors that he was all right. So they passed him out as having no disability.

He tried to do the old job but in a few weeks had to give it up. There came a numbness in his arms and legs and it was not long before he was unable to stand alone.

Soon after going to the hospital he made an application for compensation. Then he told the story of what caused his disability.

It seems that shortly before he was sent to Camp Devens for demobilization he was thrown from a horse, which kicked him in the head.

The War Risk Bureau demanded evidence. The comrades who saw the accident, from the doctor who treated him, and from his commanding officer.

After a great deal of trouble he secured the required affidavits and forwarded them.

Many weeks passed before he heard from the Bureau, and then he was informed that his claim for compensation had been disallowed on the ground that it had not been incurred in line of duty, but was the result of his own moral turpitude.

He protested that the finding was wrong and unjust. His protests went unheeded. On crutches, and aided by two buddies, he called at the office of the Boston American a few weeks ago and told his story. He had heard that this newspaper had "done things" for boys who were out of luck because of bureau decisions. Would it get busy for him?

Today the Boston American received two telegrams relative to the case, one from the director of the War Risk Bureau in Washington the other from the boy's Congressman. Both say that Ernest Duchesne has been cleared of unjust finding and granted permanent total disability compensation from the date of his application.

JACKASSES, EH? Well, perhaps Mr. Admiral Sims had better save a little of his superfluity of speech to explain some of his loose talk during his visit in London, now that he's home. Above is an exclusive photograph showing the Admiral when he made his famous "jackass speech." Next to him, left to right, are Lord Desborough and Earl Beatty.

LOFTY LETTERS—Carl F. Egge of Minneapolis, just appointed new head of the Federal air mail service. Been in postal division 30 years. (Int.)

SHOCKLESS! At last long-armed folk and timid gunners have come into their own. This newly invented weapon absorbs the shock of the exploding shell and can also be extended for persons with long arms. Above, gun extended; Below, screws that regulate size of stock. Springs absorb the shock. (K. & H.)

BACK-FLIPPING. Swimming and diving are among the sports most favored by the bronzed girls at Dr. Sargent's School.

FORE FOR A LADY, PLEASE! Here we have a future golf champion. Little Marjorie Lewis, aged five, who, according to Miss Alexa Stirling, national woman's champion, has perfect form in her strokes. She is shown just before a long stroke. (W. W.)

GREETINGS, BOB! Just to let Mayor Peters know he was in town, Robert G. (Fighting Bob) Woodside of Pittsburgh, national commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, dropped in for a quiet chat. King of Swat Has Not Had Much Success Against Red Sox Pitchers

By Nick Flatley

Another throng was out, hoping that a couple of days vacation had exiled the batterer sufficiently to get him home running once more.

Carl Mays, who won the opening contest, was ready to come back to get an even break for his outfit while the local pitching assignment was a toss-up between Thormahlen and Myers.

Ruth Ruth was hitting in the first game though he did not join the circus home league. He peeled off three consecutive homshots, and then bolted out a long fly that I behind soared out past the bleacher corner. Home I had the lucky number, afterwards.

Little Schield is the best performer that has guarded center field since Speaker went away. Runs here, he covers more ground than a buzzard and plays the batters perfect. A jumping one hand stab robbed Ward of a clout trip in the last round of the night cap.

HAINES LOOKS FOR VICTORY

Believes Crimson Athletes Will Prove Mettle at New London Tomorrow

The early work was very light on account of the excessive heat, and rarely have we simply put his crews. Freshmen and subs, through a few racing starts and sent them back to the boathouse. The varsity and second crew rowed a fast half-mile. The varsity had no trouble in pulling away from them. Coach Haines did not accompany them.

Right after lunch the varsity were taken to New London harbor, where they boarded a sailing yacht, Queen Mab, owned by Nat Ayers, of Boston, and enjoyed a sail. The freshmen crew was taken out on the tippy for the same length of time.

This afternoon the curtain was raised on the regatta when the combination crews of both camps raced two miles, followed by the "gentlemen's eight."

A huge bonfire was built here to celebrate the Harvard victory at Cambridge. Considerable enthusiasm was shown at the result.

FORFEITS ARE POSTED FOR MONTREAL-FRIEDMAN GO

By JACK CONWAY

Forfeits have been posted with the ring writer for the ten-round title battle between Abe Friedman, New England bantamweight champion and Young Montreal, which will be staged by the Commercial A. C. at Mechanics Building next Monday night.

The winner of the Pal Reed-Tommy Robson bout, which will be held under the direction of the Armory A. A. at Mechanics Building tomorrow night, will be pitted against Mike Gibbons of St. Paul in a contest to be staged in this city on July 19. Mike Collins, manager of Gibbons, has made all arrangements for this bout, with Matchmaker Sig Mechanic of the Armory Club.

Gibbons has been a big winner in his Boston starts. The fans would be delighted at an opportunity to see him in action with either Reed or Robson. Either of these husky hitters would be certain to make things interesting for the Western phenom.

Although stopped the last time he battled the N. Y. champion Sheelin will undoubtedly go to the post a favorite on the holiday. Sheelin, although past thirty, is fighting better right now than at any time during his long ring career. He is not only boxing well, but he is also getting great power behind his punches.

Harry Riley, West End welterweight, and Billy Woods of Manchester, N. H., are the young men who will mingle in the semi-final of ten rounds. There will also be a couple of eights. As there will be popular prices a large crowd is looked for on hand to witness festivities.

DEMPSEY AFTER MORE ACTION

Champion Wants Sparring Partners Who Are Able to Punch

By Jack Dempsey

Heavyweight Champion of the World

The band of sparring partners I have are splendid fellows, each and every one. They give me wonderful practice in the matter of speed in the development of clever defensive work and the other scientific features of ring warfare. But I haven't got anybody who really can step in and mix it with me and permit me to let loose with almost everything I've got so I can get real punching practice.

Meanwhile I content myself plugging the several sheepish looking bags, whenever I feel the urge to take a workout. I'm not going to take on any more fights until I get ready, and I'm not ready yet. I'm not sure of the time I'll be ready, but I'll know when I get there.

It was fearfully hot here today and I reckon that the folks who came out to see me had been boiling often enough in the sun by sitting in the arena so I did my work in the big aeroplane hangar where it was cool. Put in about forty minutes there and the sweat came rarin' out, all of which proves that I'm fast rounding into condition.

About five minutes against the isolated punching bag, six minutes with the big 75-pounder, two rounds with Babe Herman and three with Benjamin, the shifty lightweight, made up the meaty part of the day's work. I've saved up the big fellows for tomorrow.

Medbury's Column

In the good old days if you'd go out with your girl and wouldn't hold her hand people would say you were a gentleman. If you go out with a girl today and don't hold her hand they say you're married.

A fellow used to take his girl out into the fields and pick wild flowers, but today they spend their time on roof gardens plucking pappy ones.

He used to take her on a hill and say [illegible] but now she tucks her under his arm and says [illegible]

It used to be that he'd have to have a good excuse if he wanted to stay late, but these times he has to have a good excuse if he wants to go early.

If the state lets who gets facetious and if he goes early she gets suspicious.

There was a time when a guy was satisfied with calling on only one girl in the same evening.

But that was when there were more evenings than there were girls. Now there are more girls than there are evenings.

They used to sit out on the front porch in the moonlight; drink root beer and be scared to death that father would catch them. Now they sit in a cafe, drink moonshine and are scared to death that the police will catch them.

FINANCE AND BUSINESS

—By B. C. Forbes—

Lots of us think we are having it hard—and some of us are, but whew! When you talk with friends who have just come back from Europe, including England and Scotland, you feel that, after all, this in infinitely the best country in the world to live in today, even though things may not be going the right way.

* * *

The coal strike has brought real hardships to practically every household in Britain. The amount of idleness there is appalling. It is authoritatively estimated that half the entire population are drawing "doles" from the government. This is sapping the nation's manhood and also the nation's financial strength. Want, discontent, unrest are met at every turn. Most of those returning from America after a visit find everything and everybody changed. Many who intended to spend vacations on the other side cannot get ships to bring them back soon enough.

* * *

Some of the show places of the continent are putting on a smiling front; but beneath the surface Spain and elsewhere, conditions are far from happy. Living conditions have become so distressing, for example, in Rome, Milan, Naples and other Italian cities that the fascisti—the militant party—has ordered that the necessaries of life must be sharply reduced, and they are taking aggressive measures to see that no merchant charges more than what has been decreed to be a fair price. The Swiss authorities have also been moved to get after butchers and others to lower retail prices to levels within reach of consumers. In Germany the people are working with greater energy than before the war, and have departed far from the eight-hour day.

Generally speaking, commodities throughout Europe cost so much at the present value of the currencies that the working people, and even moderately well-to-do families, are unable to live in anything like the comfort enjoyed by the by the majority of working class people in the United States.

* * *

True, there is a heart-breaking large number of people unemployed in this country at present; hundreds of thousands of salaried men find their incomes cut through the stopping or passing of dividends; the vast number of corporations, companies and firms in all lines of business have sustained heavy losses—particularly paper losses; our enormous agricultural population have been experiencing a lean year financially; wages, at least as measured by dollars, have been falling; taxes continue burdensome; security markets have been collapsing, and so forth and so on.

Yet the fact remains that the amount of actual hunger and cold and distress in this country is infinitesimal as compared with European conditions. The standard of living here is so high that we often forget how well off we really are.

* * *

A writer who describes himself as "just an ordinary citizen, with an ordinary income," indited in an ordinary way" (William ePather), thus very aptly paints conditions as they are with the majority of Americans today:

"I am writing this in the living room of my home, on a typewriter that weighs no more than a moderate-sized book.

"Light is provided by a lamp in which burn two incandescent bulbs.

"In an adjoining room is a telephone from which I can talk to any city on this continent.

"On the wall is set a thermostat which regulates the flow of gas in my furnace, and keeps the room at an even temperature of 68 degrees.

"A music cabinet contains records of the finest artists from the best operas, and selections by the greatest musicians in the world.

"Almost within arm's reach are several shelves of books filled with the most profound and beautifully expressed thoughts of the ages.

"The floors of my home are cleaned with a suction sweeper, while the clothes are put through a mechanic washer and ironed in an electrically-driven mangle.

"My children attend a school where they are given a better education than the sons of kings could command a century ago.

"I go to work in a machine which some people call an automobile, and I travel a distance in three-quarters of an hour which would have been an all-day trip for my father a generation ago.

"Were the good things of life ever so easily at the command of the ordinary man as they are today? Don't we all do a lot of welching that we haven't any right to do?"

* * *

If we all try to look a little more on the bright side of things and a little less on the dark side of things, we could soon bring about better days for all in this greatly blessed land.

Germans Still Efficient

President Du Bois of the Western Electric Company said after returning from Europe that Germany seems as industrious and efficient as ever. He remarked: "With wages low as measured in currency of other countries, with highly competent workers eager to produce, and with the reparations problem in more settled state, Germany is in position to go ahead building up foreign trade to handle export business. At present she can turn out many kinds of manufactured articles to sell profitably for less money than any other country. But a grave question is arising as to whether the working population can or will continue to accept its present low standard of living. The danger in Germany is [illegible]

HARDING CONFAB FOR U. S. PLAN

President to Discuss Home Financial Problems With Business Men

By C. B. EVANS

(Copyright, 1921, by Public Ledger Co.)

Chicago, June 23.—The conference of bankers and men with the President, which a number of Chicago bankers are leaving this city to attend, is a much more important affair than most of such gatherings.

All concerned herein are profoundly impressed with the need of some general corrective of present conditions, even though the measures adopted be not expected to reach the roots of the trouble.

Much can be done to soften the effect of business troubles and to prevent them from becoming important quarters which are still threatened.

UP TO GOVERNMENT.

But, as one of the Chicago bankers has put it, only the government is big enough to perform the task in hand. The government is interested on its own account in a strictly business way and is being the greatest business organisation we have.

Moreover, if an emergency arises it matters little what authorities there may be, or what political objections, that emergency must be met, law or no law.

There is a big central plan in and around this invitation to leading business men to talk with the President, entirely independent of any scheme for funding the international debt.

INTERESTS OF PEOPLE.

It is safe to say that the interests of the American people will be the prominent thought.

We, of course, cannot live our life independently of the rest of the world, but altogether too much attention has been given to supposed opportunities for trade with other lands and the result is that domestic trade, which is never been experienced before.

Everybody knows that the mercantile bank of the Americas and Gaston, Williams and Wigmore did not handle only those engaged in this trade that have come to grief. They are all in the same boat, and the number of people directly affected is not a boat load but a ship load.

Certain of the partners of the presidential party have shown a profound contempt for most of the conferences and conventions all through the period during which have made themselves so conspicuous.

PROJECTS TOO LATE.

This not because it was not desirable to increase the foreign commerce but because the time for all projects of that main so thin, so charged with excessive expectations and managed with so little regard to strict business principles.

The bankers who occupy the position of critics in the matter insist that the same principles should be applied to these big projects as are considered necessary to successful banking at home.

Suggestions are made in these institutions, as one banker expresses it, send to foreign countries bonds and ing balances of 5,000 or 10,000 to handle transactions running into the millions was not the way to begin at such a home to deal with thousands.

Result, commitments to many countries and in these remote countries which have practically gone to pieces while the ordinary merchants' dollars millions of dollars have been lost through failure or dishonesty of the purchaser and wangglations on a great scale.

BASED ON OLD IDEA.

Many men still have the idea of their earlier years that there is huge wealth packed away in the hinterland to be beckoned into the hands of American traders, while gold, silver, precious stones and everything else evidencing riches is to be had in unlimited quantities for the asking.

It has been ascertained since the times of the Arabian Nights that the only things to be had by a touch are a boy touching the old man.

It is by domestic trade that the Chicago contingent in this country feel that they now can do their part in the upbuilding home of culture and prosperity.

WILL LOWER PRICES.

It is well recognized that in the restriction of trade with foreign countries which is surely coming, indeed, and the sooner the way, the better, American commodities will decline, but that is not as unmixed evil as the prime question of the day. We shall take in this country food and clothing and lodging for all, with some of the additional comforts and pleasures.

But we must first of all look out for our own relief and not throw it away in the expectation of having some miraculous power bring the whole world of India to exchange for it. Back to first principles is the idea of a number of these advisers of the President.

Call Loans Total Little

Call loans in the Wall Street district for a week past have been less than a normal average. The daily turnover, including transactions on the curb exchange and in the outside market, are said to range in the aggregate from $10,000,000 to $15,000,000 a day. In a bull market they total from $40,000,000 to $45,000,000.

Railroad Items

Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis directors have postponed action on the "Pan-handle" dividend.

From January 1 to June 4 ear loadings totaled 15,507,392 cars, against 17,181,000 cars in 1920.

Gross earnings & Nashville earnings for the first four months of 1921 were $4,464,000, a decrease of $1,000,000 over the same period last year.

Net for the second June week the Southern Railway reports that operating income was $1,000,000 while from January 1 the decrease was $9,264,000.

Navy gross of the Union Pacific for May was $12,515,000, against $15,494,258 in May, 1920. Reports from other railroads show that the switching and terminal companies show up to measurably better advantage. Net for May was $45,000 in balance after taxes and of $52,992,646 in net operating income.

For the second week of June Mobile & Ohio reports a decrease in net of $30,000 from January 1 its gross increased $729,456.

Corporation Notes

It is expected that Penn Seaboard Steel Co. of America will total $200,000.

The Detroit Edison Co. reports for May that gross increased $61,967, and that it gained $70,482 in net.

In May this year $7,800,808 revenue passengers were carried by the Interboro Rapid Transit Co., as compared with $8,841,968 in May, 1920, while operating expenses increased $274,170, to $2,868,000.

In the year ended April 30 last American Locomotive Co. earned $27.87 a share on

OILS ARE FIRM AS A CLASS

Mexican Petroleum Up Three Points at Its Highest; Steels and Motors Off

By W. H. ROSS, Financial Editor.

Stocks were weak in New York at noon, the market having reacted in the second hour. But it had a few strong spots. Oils were firm as a class, Mexican Petroleum being up three points at its morning highest, or lost half of its gain. Pan-American was strong on a few transactions, which was the case with Royal Dutch. Motors, rails and steels were weak. Equipments went down also. American Sugar had a poor start, but later showed a fair recovery. Trend followed motors.

First hour transactions totalled almost 250,000 shares. Among issues to sell at new lows for the year were U. S. Steel, International Nickel, Goodrich, Lackawanna Steel, U. S. Rubber, Willys Overland preferred and National Enameling. Studebaker Corp. sold at a new low for the New York exchange. Call money opened at 5 per cent. Demand sterling opened a little lower.

OFF AT THE OPENING.

Prices went down when trading began, the market having a weak opening and growing weaker for half an hour. Republic Steel opened at a new low for the year, but rallied with the rest of the list.

Chandler. Sears Roebuck sold at its lowest since listed on the New York exchange.

BILLS DISCOUNTED

The failure of the market to continue upward is a disappointment to bulls and it is believed now that the improvement after the slump on May day was due more to technical position than to anything else. There is little hope of radical improvement before autumn, and in some quarters it is not expected that much will be done before autumn. It is generally believed that trade and industry is now going through its worst period and that, barring some banking authorities, the depression is almost over. No rapid recovery is looked for, however. Business will mend slowly, as the climb is more tedious and longer than descending. It is reported that more time money will be offered from now on. There is a decided call for call funds at present. A favorable foreign event was the reduction of the Bank of England discount rate to 6 per cent., which rate had been in effect since late in April.

Cotton Market Opening

New York, June 23.—Overnight buying orders established a steady tone at the opening of the cotton market today, prices showing 4 points lower to 5 points. Demand was fair, with reports of buying by spinners and further rains in the Southwest, where drought has been a factor for several weeks. Interests were among the largest early buyers, with commission houses and trade interests also taking part in the purchases on Saturday. After the start the list soon showed a steady tone, with prices 4 points to 6 points under last night's close, owing to the favorable weather news and the weak market. Opening prices were: July, 11.90; October, 12.40; December, 12.46; January, 12.59; February, 12.81; March, 12.95; May, 13.05.

LOCAL MARKET OPENS WEAK

Trading Dull and Narrow on Boston Exchange; Rally on the Curb

Weakness characterized the Boston market when it opened and there was no rally during a dull and featureless forenoon. Trading had as little life as breadth. Only a few coppers were dealt in. Calumet & Hecla dropped 4 points to 230 and Utah Copper was off 1. Other stocks showed fractional losses. New England rails went down and packing issues were also in evidence to any extent. They seemed heavy on a few transactions. Agricultural Chemical preferred advanced four points on its first transaction and Mexican Investment preferred one. American Woolen common dropped 1¼ on its first sale. Fractional losses were shown by American Telephone, Boston & Maine, New Haven, Copper Range, North Butte, United Shoe, McElwain preferred, Swift & Co. and Waltham Watch. Among issues in advance a little were Utah Apex, Calumet & Hecla, Gulf, Ventura and American Sugar common and preferred.

CURB MARKET RALLIED

After a weak opening the Curb market rallied a little. It was most active on the decline. Early leaders were Cerro de Pasco, Hecla Divide and Verde Mines. Issues to make opening gains were Alpha, Arizona Silver, Hecla Divide and those to decline at once were Boston & Montana Development, Hecla Divide Silver Reef, Manhattan, Ophir and Verde Mines.

At the end of an hour Hecla Divide was up 2 cents at 4 cents. Crystal C rent at 15 cents, Eureka 2 cents at 21 cents, Palisade 1 cent at 14 cents and United Verde Extension 1 cent at 32. Losses included Verde Mines 2 cents at 12 cents, Arizona Silver 1 cent at 16 cents and Denbigh 2 cents at 4 cents. Boston & Montana had recovered its loss.

British Mining Production

Although wages have been greatly increased, coal production in the British Isles has decreased above 10% this year. Figures for the first quarter of that year there were 1,133,746 persons employed at the mines and the output was 244,841,000 tons. At the end of the year employes totaled 1,248,224, an increase of 114,478, but production decreased to 220,682,836 tons, a decrease of 24,158,555.

N. Y. Stock Exchange to Close

The New York Stock Exchange governing committee has decided to close the exchange on July 2, which comes on Saturday, and July 4, which is a triple holiday, as Monday is the fourth of July. More than 400 members petitioned for the closing and it was approved of by forty-six out of the sixty members present. The Boston exchanges also will close on July 3 and July 4.

World's Steel Production

As compared with capacity the week's present steel output is at a record low point, production for 1921 figured at the annual rate of 25,000,000 tons or less than 40% of the annual amount consumed by the United States alone in a normal year.

Chicago Grain Market

Chicago, June 23.—Wheat opened up 2¼ cents to 3¼ cents higher, but broke 4 cents down to mid September on U. S. July sale reports. Export demand was good. Corn opened unchanged to 1 cent lower. Oats opened 1 cent to 1¼ cents higher. Provisions were weak. Wheat closed unchanged to 1¼ cents lower. July, 98¾; Sept., 91¾; Dec., 94¾. Corn, July, 58¾; Sept., 60¾; Dec., 60¾. Oats, July, 38¾; Sept., 40%; Dec., 40¾. Pork, July, 16.87 to 16.90. Ribs, Sept. 10.42 to 10.45.

New York Curb Market

New York, June 23.—Heavyness developed immediately after the opening of the Curb Market, with pressure on many of the leading issues. Standard Oil of New Jersey sold off from 111½ to 110¾ and the preferred stocks from 44¾ to 44.

PROFIT TAKING WEAKENS GRAIN

Little Change in Wheat, Corn Goes Lower, but Oats Go High on Poor Crops

Chicago, June 23.—After a higher opening and strong markets during the forepart of the session today, grain weakened toward the end on profit taking and wedging of cash purchases in the country, and the closing was irregular. There was little change in wheat. Corn was lower and oats higher.

Wheat closed unchanged to 1c lower, corn was 3/8 to 5c lower and oats finished 1c to 1¼c higher. Barley was unchanged to 1c higher. Provisions turned weak and finished at bottom prices.

The top for the opening range of wheat was $1.39 and the latter at 26. There was no support in evidence and the weakness came on. When the July future reached $1.34¾ and September $1.28¾, prices showed signs of steadying. On the day a recession of 4¾ for July and more than 5 for September. The close was within a cent of the low.

Corn opened strong and gave promise of materially higher prices. Later the cash demand fell off and some shorts got on the top of the opening range. Then the market died away and closed heavy at the low.

Oats were carried higher by covering of shorts and unfavorable reports. Advices from portions of Illinois and Indiana said only a scrap would be left.

Rye was dull. Barley ruled firm. Trade in cash grain was slow. Prices remained unchanged to the lower. Lard was down to 12½c, the close under.

MISSING GIRL IN WORCESTER BACK

Worcester, June 23.—Mary M. Mulvey, 15 years old, who disappeared from Grand Street in June, is back at home after having been missing since Sunday. She was found in Providence, Wednesday, with a girl friend. The police matron had asked the police to find her.

WALL STREET GOSSIP

By MONITOR

NEW YORK, June 23.—The momentum of Tuesday's rally carried over the first few hours Wednesday's market session when irregularity developed in a number of special issues. Before this weakness appeared, however, a number of advances of from two to four points over Tuesday's close had been registered.

* * *

SEARS ROEBUCK, which was weak Tuesday, again was under pressure Wednesday and made a new low record at 84¾. Sometime ago an official of the company said that there was little likelihood of the present dividend rate being disturbed, the trend being would be its success in reducing inventories. There seems to be no independent quality of size stock for sale on all parts of Chicago houses.

* * *

PIERCE ARROW, both common and preferred, made new low records Wednesday, the former at 36. There was no support in evidence and the weakness came on. When the July future reached $1.34¾ and September $1.28¾, prices showed signs of steadying. On the day a recession of 4¾ for July and more than 5 for September. The close was within a cent of the low.

* * *

CUBA Cane Sugar preferred was another stock which distinguished itself by making a new low record. The cause of the decline is such that few persons are willing to venture an opinion as to the probable extent of the recession. The movement to organize a national bank of Cuba, with a capital of several hundred million dollars, is said will be introduced in the Cuban legislature presently to check the decline. It is also said that President Zayas has a plan whereby the national treasury will be replenished to the extent of $100,000,000 by an issue of bonds. Cuban capital is also a large part in financing the new sugar centrals.

* * *

THE trading element are awaiting with much interest the statement which will make public the second quarter's earnings of the U. S. Steel Corporation. In view of the known results of the first quarter, it is generally believed that they will make a favorable showing and that the July dividend will be declared. Professional operators on the short side, however, contend that there will be individual exceptions which will furnish the basis for speculative operations on the constructive side in a matter which time alone can determine.

* * *

DIRECTORS of the Panhandle Railroad met Wednesday and deferred action on the dividend. Following the meeting an official announced that directors, declaring that in view of the actual losses sustained in operations as well as adverse business conditions only prevalent, it had been deemed best to omit the payment.

* * *

A QUARTERLY dividend of $1 per share was declared by the directors of the Chicago Pneumatic Tool Company Wednesday. From date since January, 1916, has been $2 per share annually, or 50c per quarter. The action was the usual disbursement. Because of the association of Vice Admiral Sims with the company last Fall the street follows the movement with academic but more than usual interest.

* * *

THE weekly reviews of the iron and steel trade reveal nothing startling in the ratios of operations, or in the small amount of new business being booked. There were however, a few developments of interest discussed in market circles. First was the announcement that the Steel Corporation recently are not being solicited for business by the agencies which offers in an open market competitive basis. The second development was quotations equivalent to those of the Steel Corporation are now entering into competition with the jobbing trade. This is a phase which has been expected for some time. Sales agents expect will soon more promising months as a matter factor presently.

* * *

GOLD was received here Wednesday from distant parts of the world. Arrivals of shipments reported were $5,500,000 from Australia, $40,000 from Columbia, $1,000,000 from Canada, $1,000,000 from Sweden and Yucatan, Mexico. Small shipments were also received from Corsican Calvi, Havre and $1,103,000 in silver reached here from Hamburg.

* * *

THE feature of the market in the afternoon was the very heavy selling which came into Bethlehem Steel, forcing it into a new low record price at 42¾. The decline was accompanied by a report that the company has under consideration the closing of all its mills. The report was without official confirmation.

* * *

REPORTS have been current for several days that the Chinese Consortium was in danger of dissolution, owing to internal jealousies. A battalion of Japanese troops left Peking, the dispatches reported, for Manchuria. Frederick W. Stevens, representing the American group, now is in this country on a short summer vacation with a part of his time spending at Ann Arbor, Mich. He is expected to come to New York to confer with Thomas W. Lamont, banking group before returning to China.

* * *

THERE have been suggestions that the Cuban Cane Corporation was in need of new funds. Official statement was made this afternoon to the effect that the company's requirements were small.

WANTS LAWRENCE JITNEYS WIPED OUT

Lawrence, June 23.—Alleging that Illinois has been "flooded" with jitneys by Lawrence without any apparent hindrance by the authorities, Homer Loring, president of the Boston Elevated Railway Company, and Frederick P. White, declared that many fares in Lawrence would be saved if the local state commission would put into effect competitive fares. The several companies were quoting prices practically equivalent to those of the jitneys, and the commissioners were entering into competition with the jitneying trade. This is a phase which has been expected for some time. Sales agents expect will soon more promising months as a matter factor presently.

82,489 INCREASE IN LOADED CARS

Week's Total Was 783,997 in Revenue-Bringing Freight on U. S. Railroads

Washington, June 23.—An increase of 82,489 in the number of cars loaded with revenue freight on American railroads during the week which ended on June 11, compared with the previous week, is shown by reports received by the car service division of the American Railway Association. The total for the week was 736,597 cars. With the exception of grain and grain products, which showed a slight reduction, the loading of all other classes of commodities showed an increase for the preceding week. The largest gains were in merchandise and miscellaneous freight, which included manufactured products, and coal.

The total for the first ranked class was 783,997 cars, the largest total ever reported for the previous week. Coal loadings totaled 163,845 cars, which is the largest total for any class.

Report showed 19,135 cars loaded with livestock which was an increase of 1,000 cars over the week before. A total of 41,018 cars were loaded with grain and grain products, compared with 41,034 cars the previous week.

URGES ABOLITION OF DEATH PENALTY

Abolition of the death penalty and employment of the 400,000 prisoners at some practical work for the government were urged in an address by Thomas J. Croke in Lorimer Hall, Cross pleaded for the 112,000 now confined in the reformatories of the country.

"We've got to change our system of trying to reform prisoners. Don't make criminals of boys but find a way to give them a taste of better things and encourage them to make good men of themselves," he said.

Mary Garden Wants Opera Written in Jazz

The fourteenth installment of Mary Garden's picture of her own life, as sketched by the famous opera singer herself for the readers of the Hearst newspapers, is given below:

By MARY DOUGHERTY.

"I adore Jazz music."

"I am always moved to laughter when I hear people deplore it. They pretend to be highbrows and they are only fools.

"I would like nothing better in fact than to have an opera written in Jazz. That's your real American opera, that would put across your national spirit, and let me tell you, if you'd write that opera and take it over to Europe, it would be a sensation? They'd love it.

"Europeans, you know, who live in music, would understand the rhythm and appreciate the color of your music—and I tell you, they'd love it—they'd go mad about it.

"And right here let me give the man who is going to write it some real advice.

"Don't write your libretto in poetry, and don't write's sake, don't write it in blank verse!

Something New and Original Wanted.

"That will never do. The libretto must be new and the music MUST BE ORIGINAL.

"And speaking of producing the great American opera, I hope I shall be able to produce the GREAT AMERICAN SINGER.

"In point of fact, I think I have already found her, and it my hopes are realized you will hear her debut in Chicago in 1922.

"Her name is Hazel Dare Wilder and her great perseverance is my guarantee of her other qualifications. I could assure her nothing—not even a moment's hesitation.

"When I was singing Tosca, Hazel Dare Houston, my dressing room after the opera. She is a strikingly attractive young American girl about thirty years old.

Girl Determined to Be Given Hearing.

"She rushed and seized her hand—and she said, 'Miss Garden, I mistaken the great American girl. I'm not to leave you till I've had Dare Wilder of Houston, Texas.'

JAPANESE FEAR WAR WITH U. S.

Speed Naval Program as They Insure Risk for 12-Month Period

By International News Service

London, June 23.—The Daily Express today contains the following telegram from a Tokio correspondent:

"Marine insurance companies have been asked for and are granting rates to cover the risk of war between Japan and the United States within the next 12 months. The confidential expression of fear is manifesting every part on the Pacific from the shores of America to the Persian gulf. The naval programs of both countries are interpreted as evidence that they are preparing war. Japan has begun building sixteen new Jutland ships in answer to the eighteen on the American program.

"The Navy Department has ordered a division of battleships to the Pacific fleet. There is an analogy of pre-war preparations on the part of the two great nations of Japan and America, a remarkable fact of which I have discussed the matter with leading statesmen and believe the time is now ripe to lay the cards upon the table.

"War is inevitable is a snowdown. It should not be difficult to remove fears of Japan. Japan does not want war if real enough to induce her to enter into a long time agreement, say for a year, and suggest if both countries stated frankly their aims in China.

The foregoing dispatch was dated May 28 and it is presumed the extraordinary delay in its publication was caused by the Japanese censor.

General Charles H. Taylor

American journalism has lost a leader in the death of General Charles H. Taylor. Few men in this country at so early an age and under so many difficulties made the progress in establishing a great newspaper which General Taylor made in the early days of his control of the Boston Globe.

Few men in journalism have been more admired and better liked by their subordinates than General Taylor, and few men in journalism have succeeded so well in making an almost family group out of those who produced his paper.

His kindliness overflowed his newspaper and ran underground to many a man, woman and child who received his bounty without display.

General Taylor in the years of his activity could have had almost any public honor he sought in the State, but he was content to remain a journalist and a good friend and companion to all the legion whom he knew in this community.

A Sales Tax Would Benefit the Workers Most of All

Most of you working people are opposed to the Sales Tax because you have been told that it is a cunning scheme to take taxation off the rich and put it on the workers.

The men who tell you that are probably honest, but they are wrong—all wrong. They don't know what they are talking about.

Let's look into the question. And, first, let's see what the present system of taxation does to you workers.

To begin with, get it firmly in your heads that ALL taxes are finally paid by the consumer—by the last person who buys and uses the article taxed—no matter what that is. Never lose sight of that.

In the next place, remember that EVERYTHING you use is taxed. It may be taxed directly or it may be taxed indirectly, but it is taxed.

The rent you pay, pays the taxes on the ground and the building. The food you eat pays the taxes on the distant wheat farms, the taxes on the farm machinery, the taxes on the railroads that haul it, the taxes on the millers, and the packers and the canners and the commission men and the retail shops that sell meat and milk and groceries, and the taxes they pay to their landlords, and so on and so on, through an infinite variety of ramifications, including all the income and profit taxes that are levied on profits made from food production and food distribution.

The LAST BUYER, who is the consumer, pays ALL these taxes.

And as you workers are the vast majority of the consumers, and the vast majority of the last buyers, YOU PAY THE VAST BULK OF THE TAXES.

But that is not all.

You not only pay the original taxes of the landlords and the landowners and the producers and the manufacturers and the commission men and the wholesalers and the retailers, as your clothing and food and furniture and other necessaries move from their source to you, but at each transfer in the chain of communication between the first producer and you, the last buyer, you pay another profit, added to the original tax. The original seller reckons the tax as part of the cost of the goods, and he passes this on with his profit added; the next chap does the same, and so does the next, until when you buy the goods you have to pay the original tax, which the government gets, and from two to six private profits levied on that tax as it passes by. And as you eat or wear out or use up the goods in some way, and do not resell them, you can't pass that tax on to somebody else.

You pay it. That's what you do. You can't help it.

So you see you all pay SALES TAXES now, every day of your lives.

The difference is that they are CONCEALED sales taxes.

You pay these sales taxes when you buy your rent and your food and your clothes and everything else you must have or you want, and you pay these sales taxes WITHOUT KNOWING IT.

And this concealment, this secrecy, this furtive picking of your pocket, is the very worst feature of the present system.

So it is not a question of whether you want sales taxes or not, but the question is whether it is better for you and everybody else that we should have an honest, open, above-board sales tax, under which we would all know what we are paying and what was being done with our money, or to keep on having these secret, furtive, pocket-picking sales taxes, that make living more costly for you and your ACTUAL taxes much higher than they ought to be.

Believe us, it is the CONCEALED sales taxes that shift the load to you workers, not the honest, open sales tax that we favor.

Probe Lighting Charges

The Mayor and the Board of Aldermen, after hearing the statement of the attorney for the Boston American, by unanimous vote appropriated $10,000 to meet the expenses of an investigation into the charges for gas and electricity which the local gas and electric light company is making to the people of Lawrence.

The city solicitor assured the Mayor and the Board of Aldermen that he would make a most vigorous campaign before the Department of Public Utilities in behalf of the Mayor's petition.

It would be well if the municipalities in other parts of the State followed the example of Mayor White and the Board of Aldermen of Lawrence. Everywhere the gas and electric light companies have taken advantage of war conditions to push up their prices, we believe, beyond reason. The city governments have now the power to finance investigations of this character and they are neglecting the interests of their people if they do not investigate the prices they are being charged by the public utility corporations, which supply them with light and power.

Berlin Women Live Long

By KARL H. VON WIEGAND

BERLIN, June 22.—Were age and wisdom synonymous, and Berlin to be governed by the oldest citizens, women would comprise the municipal government of the former capital of the Kaiser.

There women hold the blue ribbon for old age in Berlin. The oldest is Frau Marie Hoberg, born January 20, 1826, and she has passed the 101st milestone. Her husband is ninety-four. His father reached the age of 127 years in Russia. Frau Hoberg is a washwoman, and still works daily at the tub, since she lost four sons in the war, and her husband being blind.

The second oldest woman in Berlin is Frau Anna Brusewitz. She will be a century old in September, and has had eight children, though she does not know where any of them are. Frau Brusewitz is too feeble to work and is boarded and lodged with a seventy-year-old neighbor woman for the sum of 100 marks ($1.75) a month. The kind neighbor declares that the aged woman has a very hearty appetite, and regrets that she is unable to always furnish her with enough to eat for that sum. Frau Brusewitz herself explained that she had not been able to leave her bed since the news came that the German Kaiser had fled to Holland, and is now only waiting for death's call.

Frau Wilhelmine Panny expects to round the century mark in January, 1922. She is a charwoman.

There are no century-old men living in Berlin today. All three of Berlin's oldest women have had to toil and slave hard all their lives, from which the conclusion might be drawn that ease and luxury do not necessarily contribute to long life.

CLUCK! CLUCK!

He was congressman from one of the rural districts up State, and when on the stump he was never bashful about telling his hearers why they ought to support him.

"I am a practical farmer," he cried. "I can plough, reap, milk cows, shoe a horse—in fact, I should like someone to tell me something I can't do."

Then, from the back of the hall, out of the impressive silence, came a voice:

"Can you lay an egg?"

To An Astrologer

NAY, seer, I do not doubt thy mystic lore,
Nor question that the tenor of my life,
Past, present and the future, is revealed
There in my horoscope. I do believe
That yon dead moon compels the haughty seas
To ebb and flow, and that my natal star
Stands like a stern-browed sentinel in space
And challenges events; nor lets one grief,
Or joy, or failure, or success, pass on
To mar or bless my earthly lot, until
It proves its Karmic right to come to me.
All this I grant, but more than this I know!
Before the solar systems were conceived,
When nothing was but the unnamable,
My spirit lived, an atom of the Cause.
Through countless ages and in many forms
It has existed ere it entered in
This human frame to serve its little day
Upon the earth. The deathless Me of me,
The spark from that great all-creative fire
Is part of that eternal source called God,
And mightier than the universe.

Why, he
Who knows and, knowing, never once forgets,
The pedigree divine of his own soul
Can conquer, shape and govern destiny
And use vast space as 'twere a board for chess
With stars for pawns; can change his horoscope
To suit his will; turn failure to success,
And from preordained sorrows harvest joy.

There is no puny planet, sun or moon
Or zodiacal sign which can control
The God in us! If we bring that to bear
Upon events, we mold them to our wish;
'Tis when the infinite 'neath the finite gropes
That men are governed by their horoscopes.

HOME AND SLEEP

Whether they say so or not, some women resent the fact that their husbands fall asleep so easily once they are home.

They gain the impression that the men do not enjoy their homes, that all the interest they have in the home is a place to sleep and eat.

Quite the reverse is true.

Business conditions are such today that al the thought and all the strength and all the energy of a man is required to keep his head above water in the world where a living is earned.

Consequently the man comes home exhausted, and the fact that he can peacefully sleep is appreciated by him more than anything else for the time being.

And if he cannot rest and sleep in his own home, where shall he?

Better be glad that your husband comes home to sleep, for it shows home has an element of rest for him.

But all this is quite different from the man who gets out to have a good time just as soon as he does get rested.

TRIBUTE OF THE GLOBE TO ITS FOUNDER

By Uncle Dudley

(From editorial in today's Boston Globe.)

THE most grievous duty that could fall to this pen is to record the passing from among us of Charles H. Taylor. He was the originator of this column and its unfailing inspiration. The last day he sat at his desk he outlined an editorial for it. Although he was stricken in the evening, his habit of seeing things through remained unweakened and he insisted the next morning on having the proof of the article read to him as he lay in bed.

That editorial, which appeared here on Wednesday of last week, was an appeal for courage and leadership in the present business situation, which he faced without a doubt of a prosperous future for the country, and he called on men to show themselves in the emergency leaders rather than leaners. The whole argument rested on his own philosophy of life. For he believed that men are leaders not necessarily because they know more, but because they have more faith in themselves, and that for lack of it others lean on those of stronger faith.

Quiet Pride

He himself never made any boast of intellectual superiority, of being better than anyone else. But he had a quiet pride in his self-reliance, which had saved him from crumbling up under the blows of fortune—in a pendency, toiling south—in the battlefield in the Civil War—in the bitter weeks of all he knew in the great Boston fire, and on the long hard road to the establishment of his ideals.

His success really was the result of very simple and very human qualities. It was characteristic of his life to the end that when he found himself in early manhood the Governor's secretary, he did not go in for high and lofty statesmanship, but busied himself with the applications for pardons that came to the executive chamber from the penitentiary.

* * *

When he became the editor-in-chief of the Globe he merely put himself into the paper and there by made it a human thing. He did not mount an editorial tripod and begin to air abstractions over the people's heads. Rather he addressed himself straight to the homely problems and interests of our everyday life.

* * *

He found the American newspaper a one-sided partisan political organ only for men, and he broadened it to include both sides of every question under discussion and to include in its scope the women and even the children.

* * *

His virtues were the simple, native kind that begin at home. He did not have two sides to him, one to turn to his family and friends and the other to cajole abroad. Although he made no resounding professions, he was as scrupulous in keeping faith with his readers and the public as he was in his personal relations. His idealism was only realism to him. He did better than preach what he preached; he practiced more than he preached.

A remarkably clear, sane and vigorous mind that was positive and creative, rather than negative and critical; a spirit flaming with youthful enthusiasm, flowing with sympathy and rippling with humor; an extraordinary energy put forth from a slight and apparently frail body, which yet enabled him in his prime to do his eighteen-hour day joyously . . . these formed the natural equipment of the man for the successful, useful, helpful, happy life that he lived to the full.

Many Friendships

He was a man of many friendships and he loyally kept them all through the changing fortunes of his career. He never forgot the ladder by which he climbed up and was always quick to lend a hand to those on the lower rungs. Though he passed many, he crowded no one off.

* * *

In this public comment it would be an obtrusion to express the private sorrow, the personal sense of the heavy loss which is felt by members of the Globe staff, whom his inspiring direction and unfailing kindness knit together into one great family. They rejoiced that he was spared into his forty-eighth year of the management of the paper and to become the honored dean of American journalism and they were fondly planning to surprise him on his seventy-fifth birthday next month with a testimony of affection for their chief and comrade. Now that he is gone, his memory must be their guide in keeping the Globe the true expression, the worthy monument of Charles H. Taylor.

MAKING AND KEEPING OF THE TRUE TIME

By Garrett P. Serviss.

A NEIGHBOR of mine had, until recently, in his garden, within plain view from my window, a sun-dial. Now, to my great regret, having to move away, he has taken the dial with him to be erected in some other garden. Wherever the sun-dial goes true time goes with it, and this is a consideration of increased importance in these days of capricious legislative interference with the standards of time and disputes between conflicting interests over the relative length of forenoon and afternoon.

One is reminded of the famous French couplet:

"Ne par le roi, defense a Dieu
De faire miracles en ce lieu."
(By order of the King, God is forbidden to perform miracles here.")

For True Time

But, independent of all questions about artificial time standards, as far as possible everybody ought to have a sundial or at least a meridian mark. The latter costs nothing and can be made anywhere on a level window sill having a southerly exposure. All that you need to do is to find out the direction of the true north and draw a line pointing that way, as a "north and south line" or "the meridian." When it is true noon the sun will cast a shadow right along the meridian line from any straight-edged upright object, such as a pin stuck perpendicular in the sill.

There are many ways of finding true north. You can do it by setting your watch accurately to standard time and then correcting for difference of longitude, but this requires a little special knowledge. You can get it by observations at night on the polar star, taking pains to determine with the aid of the American Ephemeris and Nautical Almanac the dates and hours when that star transits the meridian north of the zenith.

You can even do it in a rough way by the aid of a magnetic compass, correcting the deflection of the needle from a table of magnetic declinations, which can be obtained from the Smithsonian Institution's observatory at Washington. Or you can make the sun itself tell you where the meridian line is by means of its shadow at noon.

For this you must have a perfectly flat and level surface, say a carefully smoothed board, on which you place an upright gnomon—a stout pin will serve—for the purpose of ascertaining the direction of the shadow cast by the sun at the moment when that shadow is shortest.

Shortest at Noon

Manifestly the shadow must be shortest when the sun is on the meridian south of the zenith, for it is then that the sun reaches its greatest elevation. Before and after noon the shadow is longer than at noon.

The details of this simple process are better left to be worked out by the experimenter, for they exercise themselves. The changing position of the point of the shadow should be marked on the board at short intervals, beginning a considerable time—an hour or more, say—before noon, and continuing a similar time after noon. Concentric circles previously drawn on the board around the gnomon will aid the process by enabling you to see, to two points, one before and the other after noon, when the length of the shadow is the same. The bisection of a straight line joining these points will lie on the meridian.

Such a line once obtained will be found useful in many ways. Not long ago I had occasion to use my watch-still meridian line to determine whether it was a clock or a watch that had suddenly gone half an hour astray.

To the Editor

Did Much Good

Editor Boston American:

Hurrah for Dr. Charles Fleischer! His article did the writer of this a lot of good and I am glad that there is one writer with sand and courage of his convictions enough to speak right out in meetin'. Yes, trying to kill the soul and spirit of mankind is a terrible sin, and while Dr. Fleischer says there ought to be a hell invented hereafter for people who try to kill the soul, they carry it in their own consciences here.

The doctor's article ought to be framed in large letters and placed beside the dinner plate of every gossiper, where they could read it between mouthfuls.

How true it is that, sometimes if you err in the conventionals, or happen to unwittingly say some word that ruffles up the vindictive spirit of someone, they will vent their spite by trying to sadden or crush your soul, but thanks be to God through his Son the writer ABSOLUTELY refuses to be saddened or crushed by such people.

Doctor, keep up your good work and may God bless you.

FRANK RUDD.
